GREEKS EXPECT AID FROM TURKS

FDR LASHES AT STRIKES TYING UP ARMS WORK

President Considers Formation of Board to Study Problems Surrounding Disputes.

SCORES DAYTON SITUATION

Says Country Can't Approve Tie-up at Wright Field, Due to Union Row.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt disclosed today that he was considering creation of a labor board which would act not only as a mediation agency but would consider problems of labor, production and other factors entering into labor disputes.

The chief executive told a press conference he could only generalize about the proposed board but that it would not be merely a revival of the old Taft-Walsh board of World war days, since it might have a broader field.

At the same time, the chief executive spoke out against jurisdictional strikes among union men.

"As a whole," he was asked, "do you think it desirable to do away with jurisdictional strikes?

Absolutely, he replied. He added that he did not think the country could approve in any shape, way or form a jurisdictional strike like one called at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

Jurisdictional strikes are part of a general situation that is under study, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, but he admitted he did not know exactly what might be done about them.

The proposal to set up a new labor board in Washington, he said, would not require legislation.

The chief executive emphasized the board would not be superimposed over the office of production management, but would be a separate agency.

He said it would look ahead toward longer range policy, and even to the distribution of plant facilities, so that it would consider any unwarranted concentration of labor at any one point after the current emergency is over.

Asked whether Philip Murray, president of the CIO, had expressed opposition to a federal mechanism such as the president outlined, Mr. Roosevelt replied in the negative.

To a question whether Murray was in general agreement with him, the president said he would say that things were going along very well.

Swallows Return To Capistrano— But Off Schedule

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. —(AP)— The swallows have come back to Capistrano, off schedule once again.

For 160 years, according to legend, the swallows have been arriving at the Mission De San Juan Capistrano on St. Joseph's day, March 19, and departing for the south on Oct. 23.

Last autumn, however, they left ahead of time, as they had done the year before. Scout swallows arrived Monday, and a much larger flock flew in on Wednesday.

Ramon Yorba, the mission sexton, had an explanation.

"Perhaps," he says, "the birds knew somehow that our heavy rains this spring washed away their mud nests, and that they must get here before St. Joseph's day in order to build new homes."

UP TO BRICKER

Fireworks Ban Sent to Governor For Signature.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— A bill to prohibit the retail sale of fireworks and their use in Ohio after next Aug. 1 went to Governor Bricker for his signature today.

Action on the measure was completed in the house of representatives yesterday a short time after the senate killed a motion to reconsider its action approving the bill.

Some Have Misgivings But Majority of Mansfielders Favor Quick Passage of Lend-Lease Bill, Survey Shows

MANSFIELDERS have some misgivings about the lend-lease bill now being debated in congress but the majority are in favor of quick congressional passage of the measure so that the United States can give Britain all the help it can spare.

That is the consensus of opinion revealed in a News-Journal survey which includes a cross-section of the city's population.

Virtually all of the persons interviewed were for immediate aid to Britain, most of them believing that any further delay will be a threat not only to Britain but to the United States.

One man favored declaring war on Hitler, adding that "we are virtually in it anyway." He thinks there is no point in helping Britain in a round-about way and expecting to keep our own fingers from getting burned.

Party lines cut no figure with Mansfielders in the matter of helping Britain with supplies and arms, but some of the Republicans are afraid the lease-lend bill will give President Roosevelt more power than a president should have. They would like to see the bill amended to limit his power and then passed without any more argument.

Interviewers found that a surprisingly large number of Mansfielders know little more about the bill than that it would pledge the United States to provide every help possible for England. Many persons, doubtful of their interpretation of the bill, would not venture an opinion. Others admitted they "don't know what it's all about."

The general opinion, especially among men who served in the last World war, is that help we send across the Atlantic now may be the thing that will keep the war from coming to American shores.

ARSON CHARGE FILED AGAINST BLAZE SUSPECT

Mansfielder Will Face Court Tomorrow as Result of Fire In Trailer City.

An arson charge was filed today in municipal court against John D. Ritchie, 36, Mansfield, who allegedly admitted to city and county authorities that he set fire to a residence and grocery store at the Trailer City tourist camp east of Mansfield early yesterday.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said Ritchie would be given a hearing Saturday morning before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. The affidavit was filed by Henry J. Carew, owner of the building who was forced to flee from the burning structure with two other occupants.

The blaze, believed to have started from two gallon cans of gasoline in the basement, destroyed the frame building. The loss was estimated by Carew at approximately $3,000.

The arson charge was filed after Prosecutor Harold Lutz questioned Ritchie yesterday at the county jail and investigated the burning of the building.

Ritchie, an auto mechanic employed by a Mansfield coal and building supply firm, was taken into custody a few minutes after the blaze was discovered by two city patrolmen. They said he came to them as they drove into the entrance to the tourist camp and confessed he ignited gasoline under the building to start the fire.

Prosecutor Lutz said Ritchie readily confessed starting the fire "to get even with Carew."

Ritchie's wife, Mrs. Arlene Ritchie, was in the building when

FALLS DEAD

W. E. Stepler, 65, Dies as He Opens Door of Auto.

Stricken as he was getting into his automobile in the Dillon garage, 280 North Hammond avenue, William Stepler, 65, of 210 South Adams street, died almost instantly at 10:30 a. m., today.

Tunis E. Dillon, proprietor of the garage, said Stepler came to the garage to have his car repaired and was preparing to leave after Dillon told him how to make the repairs himself.

He said Stepler collapsed as he opened the car door and was dead when Dillon reached him. Coroner L. B. McCullough said death apparently was due to a heart attack.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today.

Stepler, a carpenter, came to Mansfield from Indiana several years ago. Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Rose Stepler, and a sister, Sarah, of Mansfield, and several relatives in Indiana.

Mumps Gets Decision

UPPER SANDUSKY—(INS)—"Court's adjourned — the judge has the mumps!"

This was the order issued today in the case of John Fleck against the United Trucking company.

Judge Russell Kear was hearing the suit for damages. He felt a chill. Then his head felt warm. As the session wore on, his throat became sore. He adjourned court and went to a doctor.

The doctor sent him home to bed. He had the mumps.

SEES INDUSTRY SPURT NEARING

Federal Reserve Officials Tell Mansfielders It's Only a Question of Time.

Mansfield and all other industries in this district will be working 100 per cent capacity on national defense orders in future months, a Mansfield delegation was told yesterday by Federal Reserve board officials in Cleveland.

A Chamber of Commerce delegation had made the trip to submit an industrial survey on idle plant capacity here in an effort to seek defense contracts for local industries.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the chamber said the report was filed with the board but that no information was available on what action would be taken on the delegation's request.

He said the Cleveland office had just been set up there and was not fully organized. It is expected, however, that a technical expert will take charge within two or three weeks. He will be asked to come to Mansfield and discuss contracting aid with local manufacturers.

Routzon said that although no promises were made, an employe of the board told the delegation that it was only a question of time until all industries in the district would be working 100 per cent capacity of defense orders.

Besides Routzon, the delegation making the trip included Robert C. Remy, president of the Chamber, and Atty. C. H. Henkel, past president.

The survey left with the board shows the total productive and unproductive facilities of 24 Mansfield industrial plants; labor engaged in industry, and the amount of labor and production facilities available to bring plants up to 100 per cent capacity.

Four Murderers to Broadcast Feelings on Walk to Gallows

BULLETIN

COLUMBIA, La.—(U.P.)—District Attorney C. C. Minard this morning positively forbade Sheriff G. E. Erskine of Caldwell Parish to permit four condemned prisoners here to broadcast over Radio Station KMLB of Monroe just before their execution at noon today.

(By United Press)

COLUMBIA, La.—Pencils were flying in death row in the county jail today where four men had discovered their avocations belatedly. They were going to be hanged at noon for murder.

They were composing last messages to the world which the sheriff had promised them they could broadcast over a radio station at Monroe just before they go to the gallows. They already had composed statements for the press, and, it was understood they were planning testaments for posterity. Though death was breathing down their necks, jail attendants reported they were happier than they had been in weeks.

Radio Station KMLB of Monroe had set up its equipment in the corridor and each man, as he is taken from his cell for the journey across the sun bathed

FIRST BLACKOUT

Seattle Douses Lights Tonight For Theoretical Raid.

SEATTLE —(U.P.)— Seattle, with a population of 366,000, douses its lights for 15 minutes tonight in the nation's first blackout of a big city.

Factory whistles and sirens at 10:40 p. m. (PST) will send the city into darkness during a theoretical air raid, while 6,000 air raid wardens patrol the streets.

Motorists will be forced to stop at curbs or roadsides and turn off their lights and motors, but home owners will not be prosecuted if they fail to comply with blackout regulations. Although Mayor John E. Carroll has the power to declare a state of emergency, the blackout will be voluntary, except where safety is concerned.

STRIKE CALLED

U. A. W. Stages Tieup at Plant With 5 Million Defense Order.

DETROIT —(INS)— The UAW-CIO today called a strike of 500 men at the Federal Motor Truck company, which has a $5,000,000 defense truck order. The union demands wage increases and a preferential shop.

Edward M. Owen, state labor board conciliator, said the strike had been called despite the labor board ruling that since defense contracts were involved a 30-day cooling off period was required. The strike notice was filed Feb. 25, Owen said.

LONGER DUTY?

Army May Try To Keep National Guardsmen In Service.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—War department officials said today the army may ask congress for authority to keep the national guard in service for an additional six months or a year.

Whether the guardsmen are kept in uniform beyond the current year's period of training will depend, it was explained, on the tenseness of the international situation.

SPEEDS HELP

Coast Guard Cutter Rushes To Aid of Freighter.

PHILADELPHIA —(INS)— U. S. coast guard headquarters announced today that the cutter Mohawk was speeding to the assistance of the 6,000-ton Norwegian freighter Olafberg which grounded on Fenwick Island shoals near Ocean City, Md., early this morning.

DRIVE AGAINST AMENDMENTS IN NIGHT SESSIONS

Administration Forces Seek to Kill Proposed Changes In British Aid Bill.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt declared today that every day's delay on the British aid bill would affect deliveries of war materials, a little later on, to what he termed the democracies.

Asked at a press conference whether the delay on the legislation pending in the senate, was having serious effect, the president asserted at first that he had better not answer.

But he went on to add that reporters were aware that he had stated ever since the legislation was submitted to congress that perhaps a delay at this time, in February or early March, does not affect immediate aid to the democracies, but will affect deliveries a little later on.

Confident of a "working majority," administration leaders called for night senate sessions today in a renewed drive to kill off numerous opposition amendments and hasten passage of the British aid bill.

Democratic Leader Barkley, announcing his intention of holding the chamber in session until 10 tonight, said pending opposition amendments would be rejected by "a comfortable margin."

The immediate contest centered around determined attempt by opponents to write into the measure their idea of a satisfactory provision prohibiting the use of United States armed forces outside the western hemisphere and American possessions.

Administration lieutenants took the position these amendments might encourage Japanese "new order" expansion southward in the Orient, and also might seriously weaken the hand of Secretary of

DOCTORS FREED

Washington Physicians Given Acquittal on Trust Count.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Justice James M. Proctor of federal district court today ordered a directed verdict of acquittal for two physicians and two medical organizations under trial for violation of the Shermann anti-trust act.

Dr. Leon A. Martel, and Dr. Rogers Young, Washington physicians, named in the original indictment and the Washington Academy of Surgery and the Harris county, Texas, Medical society, were thus exonerated. "As to the other defendants, I think the evidence is sufficient to put them on the defense, Justice Proctor said.

These other defendants include the American Medical association, the District of Columbia Medical society and 18 physicians.

British Smash Mock Invasion On Vast Scale

Call Raid on Norwegian Island Just Rehearsal for Sabotage Drive; Greek Army Likely to Stage Defense In Mountains.

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)

Turkey's controlled press bluntly defied Germany today, declared that the spread of the war in the Balkans seemed inevitable and warned Adolf Hitler that against his "handful of birdshot reassurances stands two million Turkish bayonets."

(By Associated Press)

Greek diplomatic quarters expressed the belief today that Turkey would send troops into the mountains of Grecian Thrace to help combat a German invasion of the little Aegean kingdom, and Great Britain was reported speeding all the equipment she could spare to the Turks.

Simultaneously, the British disclosed that Britain has already coped with a week-long "mock invasion" probably on a scale greater than Germany could launch.

The sham attack, it was said, featured landings by air and sea, with British staff officers impersonating the German general staff.

Defenders of the island kingdom were described as having repulsed an assault more successful than any Adolf Hitler could devise.

Informed quarters in London also declared that Tuesday's British-Norwegian naval raid on the German-held Lofoten islands, off the coast of Norway, was a "rehearsal" for bigger things to come.

* * *

It was indicated that swift-striking British sea raiders, carrying strong landing parties, have now begun a campaign of sabotaging Nazi-held military and industrial centers along the European coast.

In the Balkans, diplomatic sources in Belgrade predicted that Yugoslavia — under pressure to choose between the Axis and Britain—would refrain from joining the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance for the time being at least.

Reports that Britain was rushing equipment to Turkey seemed to indicate that Turkey was resolved to fight if Germany moves toward the Dardanelles.

Balkan observers spotted 50 German tanks poised almost within sight of the Turkish frontier.

The initial German onslaught, however—if it comes—was expected to strike into Greece's Struma river valley in Macedonia, a 60-mile corridor leading to the sea at Salonika.

Dispatches from Sofia, capital of Bulgaria, said Gen. Alexander Papagos, commander-in-chief of the Greek army, apparently intended to abandon Thrace as indefensible and make a stand along the natural bastion of the Struma.

These dispatches reported the

CABINET SNUBS 'VICTORY' FILM

Turks Refuse to See Showing of Nazi Propaganda Picture; Crisis Awaited.

(By United Press)

ANKARA — Turkey's cabinet members, it was learned today, declined an invitation by German Ambassador Franz Von Papen to attend a showing of the German war film, "Victory in the West."

The showing was attended, however by prominent Turks and neutral diplomats except for United States representatives.

(The film depicts the highlights of Germany's victory over France last summer. Similar films of the Polish campaign were shown by German diplomats in Oslo and Copenhagen last spring just prior to the German Scandinavian campaign.)

Turkish and foreign diplomats now expect that the crisis in the Balkan situation will be reached next week.

Opinion in political circles today inclined to the opinion that Turkey would remain on the defensive unless directly attacked.

FUMES BLAMED IN 4 DEATHS

Coroner Says Apartment Was So Hot Bodies Turned Red.

ASHLAND, Ky. —(INS)— Fumes from five gas stoves were blamed today by Coroner J. C. Hall for the asphyxiation deaths of four persons who perished in a downtown Ashland apartment.

The victims were Stirl Harper, 33, Ashland merchant; Leonard Staten, 32, a restaurant cook; Charlene Terry, 20, of Princess, Ky., and her cousin, Zelma Massie, 19, of Rush, Ky.

The five stoves were found burning full blast, and Dr. Hall said that it was so hot in the apartment that the "bodies turned red."

DENIES RELEASE

Governor Turns Down Petition To Free Howell Wright.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The state pardon and parole commission today refused to recommend executive clemency in the case of Howell Wright, former secretary of the Cleveland public library board and former utilities director of that city. He is serving a term of from two to 20 years in Ohio penitentiary on a charge of soliciting bribes.

Friends of Wright recently informally petitioned Governor Bricker to release the Clevelander on the grounds that his health was poor. The governor referred the requests to the commission.

Wright, who was admitted to the penitentiary Jan. 20, must serve one year and eight months before he will be eligible for parole.

McGregor Raps Ohio School Head, Warns of Loss of Funds

Ohio faces the loss of several hundred thousand dollars in defense school funds because E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, has failed to reply to requests from the federal government for information, Rep. J. Harry McGregor charged in Washington today.

McGregor is congressman from the 17th district which includes Richland county.

McGregor said he learned from Dr. John Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education, that Dietrich a Democrat, has made no reply to two letters seeking information about the need of schools in Ohio areas experiencing sudden growth under the impetus of the defense program.

In a telegram, McGregor called on Dietrich to furnish the information at once.

"This information is needed at once or possibly Ohio will lose federal assistance which means hundreds of thousands of dollars lost to the people of Ohio and specifically a loss to every school district where defense construc-

Legislation for Increase of State Patrol Gets 'Go' Signal

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Legislative leaders were believed today to have once more given the "green light" to bills calling for an increased state highway patrol which would have emergency powers in the absence of the Ohio national guard.

The house judiciary committee early next week will receive from a sub-committee a newly-drafted bill which calls for an increase in the number of patrol officers from 200 to 500.

House leaders said legislation to set up some substitute for the national guard will be pushed just as soon as the principle administration measures have been passed.

Speaker William M. McCulloch, R., Miami, indicated that some action would be taken shortly. Legislative leaders have been gathering comparative financial data on the expanded patrol and also for a state guard.

Although the administration was reported solidly behind the larger patrol, recently it was suggested that a compromise might

COUNTESS WALDECK GIVES FINAL TALK

Appears at Last Luncheon-Lecture of Season for Mansfield Federation of Women; Speaks on European Situation.

THE FINAL LECTURE in the series presented before members of the Mansfield Federation of Women was given at 11 a. m. yesterday at the Ohio theater by Countess Waldeck, who returned from a ten months' stay in Europe only Monday. Mrs. Lester Redding, president, introduced the speaker who painted a word picture of the European situation for an audience of several hundred women.

Most thought-provoking idea presented by the Countess was that no matter what happens in Europe there will be no return to the republican or democratic past. Europe will remain national socialistic or fascist in some form, and England's only way of winning the war, according to the speaker, is to adopt national socialistic policies.

"Hitler," she pointed out, "can organize Europe economically, but not mentally, socially and morally."

"The Fuhrer is fundamentally a German, not a European, and in that he will meet failure," the Countess predicted, after pointing out that he has a complete monopoly of power.

She discussed the Rumanian capitulation which she pointed out was brought about by means of German economic aid—the intensified agriculture and by Germany becoming a market for the Balkans.

In an effort to clarify the present picture, the speaker explained that the reason the Italians entered the war was to intensify the national feeling which was being lost, and because Mussolini did not feel that England would hold out, and that therefore the entire fracas would be over in a month.

The Countess, an internationally known German journalist, is now consultant on foreign news to Newsweek magazine. She contributes to a number of other leading American periodicals. She was born into a wealthy Mannheim banking family, and served in the twenties and thirties as a roving European correspondent for the then powerful Ullstein chain of German newspapers.

She received her doctorate at Heidelberg university and went as an apprentice economist to a Berlin banking firm, before going to Paris as a special writer and correspondent.

Luncheon was served at the Women's Club following the lecture. The next federation meeting will be the annual meeting and tea at 2:30 p. m. April 8. Atty. Marshall C. Moore will speak on "The Trend Away From the Courts."

Missionary Has Program Before Women's Group

Appropriate oriental decorations were used in the library of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon when members of the Women's association entertained with a Chinese tea. Mrs. Charles Fox conducted a brief business meeting, and Mrs. H. T. Seneff took charge of the program.

M. Gardner Tewksbury, Wooster, returned missionary, spoke on China, and Mrs. Lillian Kiplinger gave the devotions. Musical selections were by the violin quartet directed by Mrs. E. D. Gibson. The members are Richard Beilstein, George Porterfield, William Klinger, and Allen Sanford. Walter Simon was accompanist.

Hostesses were Mrs. Russell Gimbel, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler, Mrs. R. N. Emerson, Mrs. E. W. Loughridge, Mrs. Thornton Moore and Mrs. Peter Young. The next association meeting will be held April 3 at the church with Miss Ruth West giving the program. There will be a book review program for members of the Pilgrim guild on March 11 with Mrs. John W. Graham as hostess for a 1 o'clock luncheon.

Several Talks Given At Woodville Session

There were 30 members of the Woodville Mothers club present yesterday at the school when Mrs. Fred Patterson led the devotions, and Rev. E. G. Corwin spoke on "Motherhood: A Divine Blessing." Mrs. Lewis Cashell gave a paper on "The Bible and Education."

Miss Frances Wolfe's room won the attendance prize, and the contest winners were Mrs. L. Hughes and Mrs. Nora Bentley. Eugene Calver gave a tap dance, and Maxine Uhl played several guitar selections. Mrs. Paul Tucker and her committee were in charge of the luncheon. Mrs. Patterson was presented with a cake in honor of her birthday. The next meeting will be held April 2.

Attendant Has Spinster Party For Bride-Elect

Miss Frances Strickler feted Miss Bette Penhorwood, bride-elect of Richard R. Stander, with a spinster dinner party yesterday evening at her home on Park avenue west. The dinner was served to eight guests at a long table, centered with a bouquet of spring flowers.

The group made a bride's book for the honoree during the evening, and the hostess presented her with a gift of silver. Miss Mariann Stander, sister of the bridegroom, is giving the rehearsal dinner for the couple at the Mansfield-Leland hotel this evening.

Miss Penhorwood and Mr. Stander will be married at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening before the altar of St. Luke's Lutheran church, with Rev. David N Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Miss Carolyn Woltmann will be Miss Penhorwood's maid-of-honor, while Miss Strickler and Miss Stander are to be the bridesmaids. Mr. Stander has chosen Edwin Jellif to be his best man, while Milton Dudley of Cleveland, John Burns, Robert McCormick and William Black will serve as the ushers.

Mrs. Ralph Stanton, 14 Marion avenue, was hostess to members of Circle Four. She was assisted by Mrs. Tom Price and her mother, Mrs. John G. Hager, when a 1 o'clock covered-dish luncheon was served. Mrs. Barney Banks, vice chairman, was in charge of the business, and Mrs. W. R. King led the devotions. Mrs. Percy Pecht reviewed "A Goodly Fellowship" by Mary Ellen Chase.

* * *

Fourteen members of Circle Five sewed for Mansfield General hospital during a meeting at the home of Mrs. Dan Wolff on Marion avenue. Mrs. Robert Black was the assisting hostess, and Mrs. Frank Mitchell read the devotions. Mrs. Osborn Meese, president, poured when tea was served from a table, decorated with St. Patrick day appointments.

National Health Topic of Program

Luncheon was served to 125 members of the Women's Society of Christian Service yesterday when members met at the church. Circle one was in charge. The opening prayer was led by Mrs. Ella Frasher, and Mrs. C. A. Crawford was in charge of the business meeting.

The program was conducted by Mrs. Charles Ray. Group singing was followed by a discussion of the topic "Investing Our Heritage For the Health of the World." The national health of Africa, China, India, Korea, and the Philippines and Mexico were discussed by Mrs. D. W. Fankhauser, Mrs. S. S. Little, Mrs. J. Leo Hartman, Mrs. R. L. Fox and Mrs. Michael Bayer.

Mrs. E. G. Corwin gave the closing prayer. The next meeting will be held April 3 at the church.

PLAN EVENTS.

Plans were completed for a covered-dish dinner at the home of Mrs. Edward Hinz, Park avenue west road, yesterday when members of Beta Kappa Tau met at the club rooms. Mrs. Richard Darling was elected secretary to replace Miss Pauline Folmer who has a leave of absence. In addition to the dinner for pledges March 13 there will be a skating party for them March 17. The next regular meeting will be held March 20.

MISS FONKALSRUD BRIDE OF WESTERNER

Exchanges Vows With A. Claude Potts at Family Home Yesterday Afternoon With Father Officiating.

DR. A. O. FONKALSRUD officiated at the wedding ceremony of his daughter, Marjorie, and A. Claude Potts of Hollywood, Cal., yesterday afternoon at the family home, 508 Forest avenue. Nuptial vows were exchanged before members of the immediate family at 2 o'clock.

The bride was attired in a soldier blue ensemble with flower hat and matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of orchids, and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Dinner was served to the wedding party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel immediately after the ceremony, and later in the day the couple left for an extended southern trip, which will take them back to California late in May.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. She attended Capitol university, the Columbus School of Art and Ohio Wesleyan university.

Mr. Potts, who is the son of Mrs. Mary Potts of Wichita Falls, Tex., is a film stunt player in Hollywood. He plays comedy parts in western pictures and is a double for Smiley Burnette, who plays in the Gene Autry pictures. Mr. Pitts' most recent part was in "The Arkansas Judge" with the Weaver brothers. He and his wife are planning to make their home in Hollywood.

Central Society Meets at Church

A business meeting was conducted yesterday morning by Mrs. Ruth Orcutt when members of the Women's Society of Christian Service met at the Central Methodist church. Mrs. William Bortscheller and her committee served the noon luncheon to the 65 members, and a program followed in the afternoon.

Mrs. L. E. Strain led the devotions, and Mrs. J. C. Stout was in charge of the program. Miss Mary Dotson and Mrs. A. T. Owen reviewed a part of the study book "Investing Our Heritage," while Mrs. Verne Hoffman, Mrs. M. L. Erich and Mrs. L. D. Connor gave chapters from the study book "Dangerous Opportunities."

Musical selections were given by a quartet composed of Mrs. Retta Bonar, Mrs. J. C. Stout, Mrs. Charles Birch and Mrs. L. A. Ogborn. The next meeting will be held at the church April 3.

Final Affair In Honor of Bride Given By Cousin

The final party in a series of post-nuptial affairs honoring Mrs. John M. McCabe was given yesterday evening by her cousin, Mrs. Earl Herrick, at her home on Cline avenue. Mrs. McCabe was formerly Miss Marianne Springer.

Guests at the party made a bride's book for the honoree. Luncheon was served at a late hour at a long table, centered with an electric mixer, the gift from the guests. Miniature figures of chefs encircled the mixer, and red streamers with name tags attached led from them to the places of the guests.

Fiesta colors predominated in the scheme of the decorations. The hostess presented Mrs. McCabe with an electric roaster in honor of the occasion. In addition to members of the honoree's sorority, Gamma chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma, the guests included her mother, Mrs. William A. Springer; her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Skinner, and Mrs. John Catlett.

* * *

HAVE DINNER.

Employes of the Myers Launderers and Dry Cleaners met at the home of Mrs. Glenn Zimmerman, Sturges avenue, last night for a covered-dish dinner. Bunco was played, and prizes won by Mrs. Helen Heston, Mrs. Alma Imhoff and Mrs. Wayne Johnson.

How To Relieve Distress Of FEMALE PERIODIC COMPLAINTS

Few women today do not suffer some distress from monthly functional disturbances, causing some to get nervous, cranky, mildly depressed a couple of days before, with dark circles under eyes, an uncomfortable bloated heaviness—others to feel weak, "drained out" for a couple of days afterward.

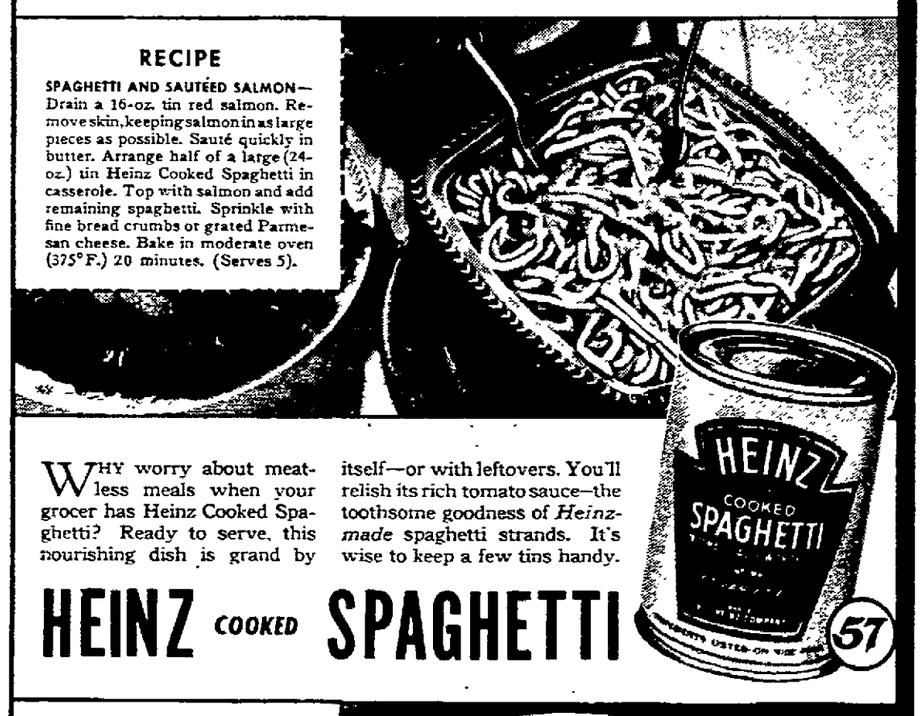
IF YOU'RE troubled this way—try famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made especially for women to help quiet unstrung nerves, relieve monthly pain and distress from these periodic disturbances.

Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Famous for 60 years. Hundreds of thousands of women benefited! Worth trying!

FOR LENT 2 HEARTY MAIN DISHES FOLKS ASK FOR AGAIN AND AGAIN!

RECIPE

SPAGHETTI AND SAUTÉED SALMON—Drain a 16-oz. tin red salmon. Remove skin, keeping salmon in as large pieces as possible. Sauté quickly in butter. Arrange half of a large (24-oz.) tin Heinz Cooked Spaghetti in casserole. Top with salmon and add remaining spaghetti. Sprinkle with fine bread crumbs or grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. (Serves 5).

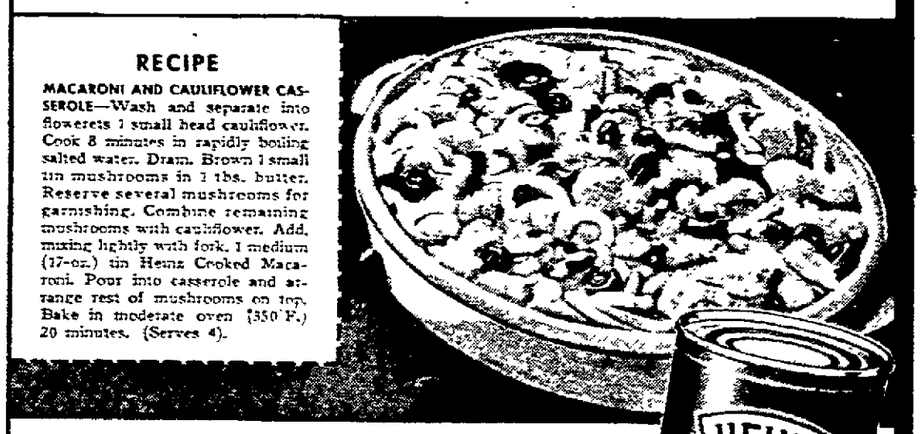


WHY worry about meatless meals when your grocer has Heinz Cooked Spaghetti? Ready to serve, this nourishing dish is grand by itself—or with leftovers. You'll relish its rich tomato sauce—the toothsome goodness of Heinz-made spaghetti strands. It's wise to keep a few tins handy.

HEINZ COOKED SPAGHETTI

RECIPE

MACARONI AND CAULIFLOWER CASSEROLE—Wash and separate into flowerets 1 small head cauliflower. Cook 8 minutes in rapidly boiling salted water. Drain. Brown 1 small tin mushrooms in 1 tbs. butter. Reserve several mushrooms for garnishing. Combine remaining mushrooms with cauliflower. Add, mixing lightly with fork, 1 medium (17-oz.) tin Heinz Cooked Macaroni. Pour into casserole and arrange rest of mushrooms on top. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes. (Serves 4).



A GENEROUS drenching of tangy, cheese-flavored cream sauce makes Heinz Cooked Macaroni extra rich and mouth-watering! So energy-giving it's almost a meal in itself, this thrifty, ready-to-serve dish solves many a meatless-meal problem. It's wise these days to keep a good supply handy!

John Simpson Wins City Junior High Cage Title

Sport Podge by REX HESS

This is the time of year when aspiring young ball players take to the mails in an effort to sell their summer services to teams in organized baseball, from the majors to the lowest minors.

Unless they have been scouted and their records checked, or have the recommendation of old time ball players in whom club owners have confidence, the youngsters seldom get so much as a reply from their many penciled, penned, and typewritten missives.

The missives just miss, and not if or maybe.

* * *

George Satterlee, president of the Mansfield Braves, has filled his wastebasket several times over with these glowing sales talks by applicants for every job from bat boy (don't worry Lightnin') to business manager.

But the best was from a couple of kids from Philadelphia, both "better than .300 hitters, and one a run-batter-inner unequalled in baseball," who modestly admit they are the "best second base double-play combination not only in Philadelphia, but in all baseball outside the major leagues."

They want to connect with a team in a major league club's farm system so they "can get to the top quicker."

* * *

"We'd be taking an awful chance signing those birds," says Satterlee. "We'd start the season with the best second base combination this side of Boudreau and Mack, and a week later the kids would be back in Philadelphia — with the Athletics."

* * *

Al Alvarez, Toledo umpire in the Ohio State league, who has been teaching at Toledo Divilbiss high school and played here Tuesday night with Chuck Chuckovits' White Huts, wants to continue in the umpiring racket.

Reminded that the life of an ump is a life of woe, and that it's a thankless job at best, Al comes back with the oldest crack known to baseball:

"You can't beat them hours."

* * *

The boy from Lucas was very hesitant as he approached this desk.

"We'd like to have you do us a favor and run a story about our benefit basketball game Saturday night, but I don't know whether you'd want to after that letter you got from Lucas about the county tournament," he said.

"Why," I told him, "that's all in good, clean fun. We have no feud with Lucas." And the story, of course, appeared in yesterday's paper.

* * *

I'd have welcomed a letter today from Lucas, or elsewhere. So tough it's been to grind out this column. As you must have suspected by now.

Relays Dinner Planned Thursday

Plans for the annual Mansfield Relays will be discussed next Thursday night at a dinner sponsored by the Downtown Coaches at the high school cafeteria, and open to the public.

The Coaches have invited Floyd Rowe, director of physical education in Cleveland schools and chairman of the national interscholastic basketball rules committee, to be the speaker for the event.

The dinner has been set for 7:30 p. m.

Blue Jays Give Title To Butler

Bellville Beats Minute Men In County Game.

BUTLER BULLDOGS today thanked their neighborhood rivals, the Bellville Blue Jays, for an undisputed championship in the Richland county high school basketball league.

* * *

Bellville edged Lexington's Minute Men 38-36 last night in the final league game of the season at Lexington, a game which would have given Lexington a tie for the title if the Minute Men had won.

* * *

The Blue Jays stepped away to an 11-4 lead in the first quarter, but saw the margin cut to 18-15 at the half as Lexington outscored them 11-7 in the second period.

The Minute men also gained the edge in the third period, 10-9 to trail 25-27, and the two teams tied in the closing canto 11-11.

Keith Pearl and Bob Edgerly, forwards, led the Bellville attack with 13 and 11 points respectively, but it remained for sharpshooting Sheldon Dillon, Lexington forward, to cop scoring honors with nine baskets and five free throws for 23 points

* * *

Dillon scored 15 points during the last half rally of the Minute Men.

* * *

Bellville also won the preliminary game between reserve teams 26-22. A capacity crowd jammed the Lexington gym for the games.

In the Consolation bracket Prospect walked over Woodland 42-12 and West Fifth walloped Bushnell 16 to 2.

* * *

In the Hedges-Brinkerhoff tilt Robert Bishop, Hedges cager, was high scorer with a total of 17.

The Newman-Western match started with a tie of 2 and 2 at the end of the first quarter but Newman had a 6 to 2 lead at half time and stayed on top throughout the game.

Millenbruck, Prospect cager, led his team to victory over the Woodland five with a total of 23, making him high scorer of the game

Lewis led the West Fifth cagers to victory over Bushnell with a total of 10

* * *

Next Saturday West Fifth will play Carpenter at Appleseed and the winner of this game will play Prospect for the Consolation championship. Newman will also play Bowman at Appleseed and the winner of this tilt will play Hedges for the Grade School Tournament championship.

Holdout Mist Lifted From Baseball Horizon for 1941

NEW YORK—(AP)—The holdout mist that shrouded the start of baseball's spring training has lifted like a fog melting under a bright sun.

* * *

The evaporation that has been going on quietly but steadily for several days swooped up Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees, Ernie Lombardi of the Cincinnati Reds, Don Padgett of the St. Louis Cardinals and Burgess Whitehead of the New York Giants yesterday.

That's a lot of high priced talent to bring to terms in one day and virtually denuded the ranks of the holdouts

DiMaggio, especially, had been expected to make a determined stand for a big boost in salary but was believed to have compromised at $35,000, a raise of $2,500 and half of the increase he had sought

Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers, reputed the top salaried star of he major leagues, is one of the half dozen important players who hasn't yet signed. However, he is not considered a holdout

Of the grade-A holdouts left Johnny Mize of the St. Louis Cardinals is the kingpin. The slugging first baseman is understood to be asking $17,500, which would put him up in the salary bracket left vacant when the club traded Joe Medwick to Brooklyn last year.

The Chicago Cubs are carrying on a bitter battle with Outfielder Hank Leiber, a chronic late signer, and with Pitcher Bill Lee, who was paid $21,000 in 1939 and $18,000 last year, but was reported cut to $10,000 this spring.

* * *

Roy Weatherly, fleet centerfielder of the Cleveland Indians, has a little different plaint. He and his club have agreed on the amount of his salary, but he wants a two-year contract and President Alva Bradley says he isn't giving any.

* * *

With the exception of a few scattered rookies or secondary performers, every other club in the big leagues has satisfied its squad.

Lombardi settled for about $18,000 in a telephone talk last night with Warren Giles general manager of the world champions. It was understood the agreement included the promise of a bonus if the big backstop hit over .300 this year. He was to leave Oakland, Cal., today for camp.

Peck to Test Tribe Lineup

Combine For Season's Opener Meets Dodgers.

HAVANA — (AP) — Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians will test his 1941 starting lineup tomorrow when the tribe engages the Brooklyn Dodgers in the first contest of a "significant" three-game series.

* * *

The Cleveland lineup for the first game with Leo Durocher's crew is supposed to be the same with which the tribe will open the season against the Chicago White Sox in Cleveland on April 19. Only absentees will be Roy Weatherly and the tribe's ace hurlers

* * *

Peckinpaugh's outfield will be composed of Jeff Heath Clarence Campbell and Gerry Walker, Lou Boudreau at short stop, Hal Trosky or Oscar Grimes at first base, Ray Mack at second Ken Keltner at third and Rollie Hemsley behind the batters. Pitchers include Harry Eisenstat, Joe Krakauskas and Marvin Center.

Durocher, who freely predicts that the Indians and the Dodgers will meet in the 1941 world series, said he intended to use his best against the tribe.

* * *

The Indians are rising rapidly to peak condition and the only injured member of the squad is Trosky, who has a sprained thumb.

Trainer Lefty Weisman predicted that when the tribe starts north on March 28 it will be his best-conditioned squad

Joe Romano Eyes Free-Toss Trophy

Joe Romano is the sharpshootin'est free-shot artist on Coach Vern Hoffman's Tyger bucket brigade.

A trophy offered for the best percentage of foul shooting for the season, and now on display in the high school halls, may have brightened Joe's eagle eye. He's hitting 1,000 in most recent games

Free-shot chances, points made, and percentages of Tyger cagers include: Romano 26-18-692; Burkholder 55-34-618; Winbigler 27-16-592; Phillips 16-8-500; McGinty 42-20-471; and Shiplet 52-23-442.

MATTICK GETS CHANCE

TAMPA, Fla — (AP) — The world champion Cincinnati Reds will examine their shortstop problem in competition today with their first exhibition game against the Boston Red Sox. Eddie Joost has been conceded the inside track for the vacancy left by the trading of Billy Myers, but Manager Bill McKechnie is giving a lot of attention to Bobby Mattick, who came from the Chicago Cubs in the deal

Union Five Defeated By Attica

Indians Drop 33-50 Tilt In Bascom Tournament.

UNION'S INDIANS were bounced out of the Bascom class B district tournament last night by Attica high school hoopsters, but the Red Men weren't as badly outclassed as the score indicates.

* * *

Erratic ball handling and defense contributed largely to the defeat, as both teams missed numerous shots on offense.

* * *

Nearly all shots were under the hoop

Attica took a 14-4 lead in the opening stanza, but outscored Union only 10-9 in the second heat to lead 24-13 at the half. A 16-10 margin in the next session gave Attica a 40-23 lead at the third quarter mark, and each team chalked up 10 points in the final period.

PLAYER INJURED

Ray Buxton, Union high school cager, suffered a scratched eye-ball in the Union-Attica game at the Bascom tournament last night, when an opponent's finger was accidentally jammed into his eye. Coach Richard Bradstock took him to an eye specialist in Findlay who said the boy's injury should not prove serious.

* * *

Downs and Curry led the Union attack with 9 points each while Biller chalked up 13 and Chilcote 12 for Attica.

* * *

In other Bascom tournament games Wharton outclassed Rawson 43-13, and Fostoria eliminated Whetstone, Crawford county champions, 47-37.

Bob Baker Puts Bulldog Ahead In Late Rally

Cool-Headed Forward Finds Hoop Three Times to Break Tie In Last Period; 1200 See Game

THE Bulldog of John Simpson barked with a championship accent today, but whether it was Boston or English only the Bulldog knew.

Simpson's Bulldogs won the junior high cage championship of the city last night with their second victory over Johnny Appleseed's Pioneers—a 33-26 decision gained before an overflow crowd in the Appleseed gym which seats 1,000. At least 1,200 saw the game, and many were turned away.

The Bulldogs had the cool head and sharp eye of little Bob Baker to thank for their victory.

* * *

Leading most of the way, Simpson saw Appleseed's Pioneers tie the score at 22-22 late in the third period and again at 24-24 as the stanza closed.

* * *

Then Baker took charge as both teams were firing wildly at the hoop and getting no place. Feinting the Appleseeds out of position, Bob took his time and marked up three of Simpson's next four buckets as the Bulldogs spurted ahead again with an eight-point lead.

During his scoring spree Baker had a bad spill and came up with a badly cut chin, but that didn't hamper his shooting eye.

Simpson took a 9-5 lead in the first quarter, but the Pioneers came back to outscore the Bulldogs in each of the next two heats, 13-11 in the second period and 6-4 in the third At one time in the second session Simpson had an 18-11 margin, only to see the fighting Appleseeds move back into the ball game The score at the half was 20-18 for Simpson, and at the third quarter 24-24.

* * *

Baker led the scoring with six buckets for 12 points while Andy Lamoreux, Appleseed center, was close behind with 11 on four buckets and three free tosses.

* * *

In the preliminary game Simpson staged another last quarter rally for a 27-21 victory after three periods of playing on even terms.

Three Teams Go to Tourney

Second Mansfield Group Rolls In State Meet.

Mansfield's second contingent of keglers will roll in the state women's bowling tournament at Dayton on the coming week-end, when three teams make the trip to the Gem city.

The teams include:

Heilman's Grocers — Florence Handwark, Bernice Reno, Hazel Altman, Elsie Huntsman and Mary Dintaman.

Orange St. Cafe — Katherine Cheney, DaLee Schroff, Margaret Yingling, Evelyn Jocka and Donna Schuster.

Long Bar—Hazel Hilborn, Pauline Shively, Ann Hager, Ruth Roesch and Bertha Malaska.

Although 44 five-women bowling teams take the drives in the Ohio State tournament tomorrow night, the feature of the semi-final week-end of competition will be delayed until Sunday when the classic's favorites, the Dayton Pepsi Colas, attempt to establish a new record for the team event.

Averaging almost 875 pins per game, the Pepsi Colas are expected to eclipse not only the 2,521 score of the Cincinnati Dorl-Fern Florists, current leaders, but also the record high score of 2,727 bowled by the Kathman Goodyear Shoe Repairs, Cincinnati, in winning the 1938 crown.

During the past three weeks, the tourney favorites have bowled one series of 2,836, three in the 2,700 class and last Monday rolled the highest one-game score of any women's team in the history of Dayton.

REX BILLIARDS WIN FROM SHILOH QUINT

Big Ten Official Peeved

Illinois Director Asks Probe of Charges.

CHICAGO —(INS)— The under current of distrust and recrimination which has characterized the relationship of the University of Chicago and other Big Ten schools since Chicago withdrew from intercollegiate football competition a year ago threatened today to explode in a fight which may rock the conference from end to end.

Latest and most forthright statement in the simmering controversy, brought about by Chicago charges that the other western conference schools are able to maintain their athletic programs by subsidization and the proselyting of amateur athletes, came last night from Wendell S. Wilson, director of athletics at the University of Illinois.

Wilson, speaking at the annual campaign Kiwanis club banquet for the Illini basketball team, declared he was in favor of dropping Chicago from the conference entirely, and he assailed the stand of President Robert M. Hutchins of the Chicago university, a leading exponent for de-emphasis of intercollegiate athletics.

* * *

"I am sick and tired of reading newspaper and magazine quotations in which Mr. Hutchins attacks our intercollegiate athletic program," Wilson declared.

"I feel myself guilty, along with some other athletic directors of the Big Ten, for not voting to drop Chicago from the conference."

Last year the conference voted to continue scheduling Chicago in basketball and other sports despite its withdrawal from football At that time, it was reported some of the conference directors favored dropping the Maroons altogether.

Since that time President Hutchins has commented frequently on his belief that universities should soft pedal big time athletics, and encourage greater student participation in intramural sports. Wilson, however, took the opposite view, declaring colleges need more, rather than less, emphasis on athletics, and said:

"We need more emphasis on athletics, and we will be better off in this conference without a man who is continually attacking our program and attempting to tear it down."

There was no immediate comment from Chicago authorities, but the stand of the school is well known. A few days ago, the Daily Maroon, student newspaper at Chicago, demanded that the university take the lead in a probe of subsidizing activities in the Big Ten, blaming such alleged subsidization by its rivals for its inability to meet other conference teams on equal terms.

Five Seniors Go to Tourney

Shelby Meets Norwalk In Sandusky Joust.

SHELBY — Five seniors are on the Shelby cage squad which will play Norwalk at 8:15 p. m. tonight at the annual district basketball tournament at Sandusky.

* * *

If Shelby wins tonight, the Whippets will go into action again at 8:30 p. m. Saturday against the winner of the Fremont Ross-Port Clinton game to be played tonight also.

Members of the graduating class on the squad are Capt. Bill Daugherty, who is a choice for an all-North Central Ohio league guard post; Glenn Fought, high scoring forward; Center Paul Hartz and Tom May and Bunny McLaughlin, substitutes.

The other five players making the trip are Junior Keiser, Dave Clark, Bob Laubie, Dave Lewis and Donald Cline.

Starting for Shelby will be the regular lineup, Capt. Daugherty and Keiser at guard positions; Hertz, center; and Clark and Fought at forward posts.

The Shelby-Norwalk game tonight is expected to be the best tilt on the opening night schedule. The Ashland-Tiffin Junior Order home game at 7 p. m opens the evening's activities. Fremont and Port Clinton play at 9:30 p. m.

ORLANDO, Fla. —(AP)— Whatever honor is attached to hurling the Washington Senators first exhibition Sunday will go to young Walter Masterson.

THEATERS

Film of Modern South.

The stirring story of the south is "Virginia," the technicolor film, opening at the Ohio Saturday. As a prologue members of the A cappella choir of the Senior high school will sing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginy" at 7 and 9:45 p. m. Alternating smart comedy and gripping drama the film tells the story of life in modern South. Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray are co-starred in this drama which also serves to introduce a newcomer, Stirling Hayden.

* * *

Lombard and Montgomery.

Co-starring Carole Lombard and Robert Montgomery, who are seen together for the first time, "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" presents these favorites in a riotious comedy of a young Park Avenue lawyer and the woman who for three years has been accepted as his wife. The picture opens Saturday at the Madison. Gene Raymond, Philip Merivale and Lucile Watson are in the supporting cast.

* * *

Romantic Sleuth.

"Michael Shayne, Private Detective," fiction's wise-cracking, rough and romantic sleuth is seen at the Ritz through Saturday. Lloyd Nolan is starred in the title role and with him is Marjorie Weaver. Things begin to happen when Nolan is assigned to act as bodyguard for a young heiress who is constantly getting into scrapes because of wild gambling sprees. Co-feature is "Under Texas Skies," starring the three mesquiteers.

* * *

Priest Saves Man.

How the regeneration of a murderer through the efforts of a determined priest saves an innocent man from the chair is depicted in dramatic fashion in "Full Confession," the picture at the Majestic through Saturday. Victor McLaglin, Sally Eilers, Joseph Calleia and Barry Fitzgerald have the leading roles. Co-attraction is "Across the Sierras," starring Bill Elliott. The story continues the adventures of Wild Bill Hickok, famous frontiersman.

* * *

Young Love.

The story of "I'm Nobody's Sweetheart Now," the film at the Park, concerns the romantic problems of two pairs of young lovers whose marriage plans are obstructed by politics and parental objections. Leading roles are taken by Dennis O'Keefe, Constance Moore, Helen Parrish and Lewis Howard. Second feature is "Trailing Double Trouble," with the range busters, Corrigan, King and Terhune, in action under the western skies.

LOT SALE SET

167 In Lincoln Heights To Be Sold April 5 By Sheriff.

Sale of 167 lots in Lincoln Heights and 43 acres of land in the Coolridge Heights area at sheriff's auction had been set today for April 5.

Ordered sold on a foreclosure judgment for $6,660 obtained by Bessie Williams as an administratrix, the lots were appraised at $8,625 and the 43-acre plot at $2,700 for a total of $11,325.

The judgment is against John Constance, jr., and others, as owners of the properties. There are no buildings on the lots.

The April 5 sale, which will be at the courthouse, will be the first sheriff's sale in several weeks.

BUILD STAGE FOR THESPIANS

Thespians at Mansfield Senior high school will have an opportunity to practice their art on a real stage, according to E. L. Heasley, instructor in speech at the school.

A classroom has been remodeled and a small elevated stage erected with background drapes to simulate conditions found on the stage.

The room will offer an opportunity for those pupils who are studying humorous and dramatic readings, as well as the art of pantomime, to perform under more than the usual classroom surroundings, Heasley said.

Vitus Bering is credited with discovering northwestern America 200 years ago.

KATHERINE HAS A DINNER DATE WITH PEARL AND I'M TO WALK IN AND MEET THEM ACCIDENTALLY--WISH ME LUCK, KID!
YOU MIGHT HAVE BETTER LUCK IF YOU BROKE YOUR LEG AND COULDN'T GET THERE--BUT THAT'S ONLY A PRESUMPTION ON MY PART--NOT A WISH
HELLO, KATHERINE. WHERE'S PEARL?
SIT DOWN - SHE WENT TO THE WASHROOM--SHE'LL BE RIGHT BACK
SHE'S BEEN GONE FOR 20 MINUTES--MAYBE SOMETHING HAPPENED TO HER--WON'T YOU GO AND SEE?
I'LL GO, BUT SHE'S THE SLOWEST THING IN THE WORLD--SHE SPENDS MORE TIME PRIMPING THAN I DO MAKING A LIVING
MR FLINT, I'M TERRIBLY EMBARRASSED--SHE'S NOT THERE--SHE MUST HAVE SEEN YOU AT THE TABLE AND SNEAKED OUT--HOW A WOMAN CAN DO THAT TO A FINE, LOVING MAN LIKE YOU IS BEYOND ME--FORGIVE ME--I DID MY BEST

STOCK LEADERS STILL SHOWING MILD UPTREND

Market Today Affected by Dun and Bradstreet Report on Increased Sales.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stock leaders continued to display mild rising tendencies in today's market although a little hesitancy developed after the opening.

Up at one time or another—some eventually slipped—were U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, American Telephone, Western Union, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, and Westinghouse.

A trifle backward were Bethlehem Steel, N. Y. Central, Chrysler, General Motors and General Electric.

On the side of market recovery forces was the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing retail spending throughout the country was maintaining a high level. The federal reserve board confirmed the merchandising swing with its estimate that department stores sales for the nation during the week ended March 1, were 5 per cent larger than in the like week a year ago.

TELL FEELINGS ON DEATH WALK

Four Murderers Scheduled To Broadcast Today on March to Noose.

courthouse lawn to the gallows, will stop before the microphone, and, after being presented to the unseen audience by an announcer, deliver his oration. The theme of all the orations, it was understood, will be: crime doesn't pay.

The condemned had devoted most of their adult lives to crime, finding themselves together in the Arkansas state prison farm at Gould, Ark., last fall. They escaped and in their flight murdered Special Deputy Sheriff Frank Gartman. For that murder, they die.

Murderer William Mehart addressed the nation through its press, thus: "Friends, I want you to know that I am one of the happiest men on earth. . . . I have confessed my sins to God and I am happy to know that I can take my last steps unafraid, knowing that I am going to meet my maker very soon. You youngsters out there that are participating in crime, no matter how small it may be, my advice to you all is to stop your way of living and turn to the Lord as your guide and you will be very happy I assure you."

Murderer Floyd Boyce said:

"I feel that I have made my peace with the Lord and that the hereafter will take care of itself. I hope some boys wake up before they are in the same predicament I am in."

These two had been consoled daily by clergymen who will accompany them to the gallows. Their colleagues, Murderers William Landers and William Heard had refused all spiritual consolation, but neither was ungracious at the moment of departure.

CUT SPEED OF SHELBY TRUCKS

Ordinance Prepared To Make Governors Mandatory on Delivery Vehicles.

SHELBY—Law Director Frank C. Long has been instructed by city council members to draw up legislation to put governors on local delivery trucks in Shelby.

The legislation would only effect trucks in use here that do not come under the interstate commerce laws.

The move was made by council after numerous complaints had been received by city officials and police department that the truck drivers were driving at an excessive rate of speed.

If passed by city council at the April 7th meeting, the ordinance compelling the owners to put governors on their trucks would not go into effect for 30 days. This would give merchants time to have them installed.

Police Chief Leroy Coffey had told council that several arrests had been made of truck drivers, but that what was needed was to cut the speed so that they could not drive fast.

City officials believe Shelby merchants will co-operate in this move which will aid in cutting down the number of traffic violations as well as accidents.

FILL PULPIT

Supply Pastors For Shelby Church Arranged.

SHELBY — Preparations were made here this week for supply pastors to fill the pulpit of St. Mark's Episcopal church here until a minister can be named to succeed Rev. Robert A. George, who recently resigned to accept a pastorate at Akron.

Vestry members of the Episcopal missions in Galion, Bucyrus and Shelby, where Rev. George served as pastor, met here this week with Rt. Rev. Beverly Tucker of Cleveland, bishop of the diocese of Canon Lisle, to discuss filling the three pulpits.

Supply pastors will be used until a new minister can be named, church officials disclosed. The business meeting followed a dinner at the Shelby Inn.

SHELBY — Ed Bottroff, truck driver, was fined $25 and costs of $4.70 when arrested here Thursday while driving a truck 39 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour district. He was tried in Mayor W. R. Morris' court where he plead guilty.

DRIVE AGAINST AMENDMENTS IN NIGHT SESSIONS

Administration Forces Seek to Kill Proposed Changes In British Aid Bill.

State Hull in dealings with foreign governments.

The first such amendment to claim consideration today was the proposal by Senator Clark, (D. Mo.) to forbid the use of any appropriations under the British aid measure for the transportation of American troops out of the western hemisphere.

If the administration forces succeed in defeating the Clark proposal, they face a second test on the joint amendment of Senators O'Mahoney, (D., Wyo. and Maloney (D., Conn.) to prohibit the use of American armed forces to deliver war equipment within the "combat zones" proclaimed by President Roosevelt under the neutrality act.

Failure of both proposals technically would clear the way for action on a "compromise" amendment drafted by administration leaders, but opponents said bluntly they would not let it come to an immediate vote.

The compromise, formulated in an effort to block off all other amendments governing the use of armed forces, states in the main that nothing in the legislation can be considered as changing existing law governing the use of American military and naval forces.

Plan Ready For Swap of Ships to Britain

WASHINGTON —(INS)— A number of American warships including destroyers and torpedo boats, will be turned over to Great Britain after the lease-lend bill is passed, it was learned today.

Details of the transfer have not yet been completed but there is a possibility that the American warships may be "exchanged" for a British battleship or two.

The navy department has moved to obtain congressional authorization for such a "swap" if President Roosevelt should wish to make it.

Legislation has been introduced in the house of representatives authorizing the navy to replace old warships with whatever type of combat vessel the president considers essential for American defense purposes.

Under existing law, the navy can only replace battleships with battleships or destroyers with destroyers.

If the new authorization is granted, the navy will have the power to replace destroyers with an equal amount of tonnage of any other category of warships. Thus, the navy could "exchange" about twenty 1,500-ton destroyers for a 30,000-ton British battleship of the Barham class.

It is possible that the destroyer-type vessels turned over to the British may be classified as auxiliary ships rather than destroyers, and they may include mine layers and fleet tugs.

Under the lease-lend bill, President Roosevelt will have the power "to sell, transfer, exchange, lease, lend or otherwise dispose" of warships or any other American defense article to the British.

Great Britain already has made known to this government its pressing need for additional destroyers and there is reason to believe the British will make an urgent appeal for these vessels once the lease-lend bill is passed.

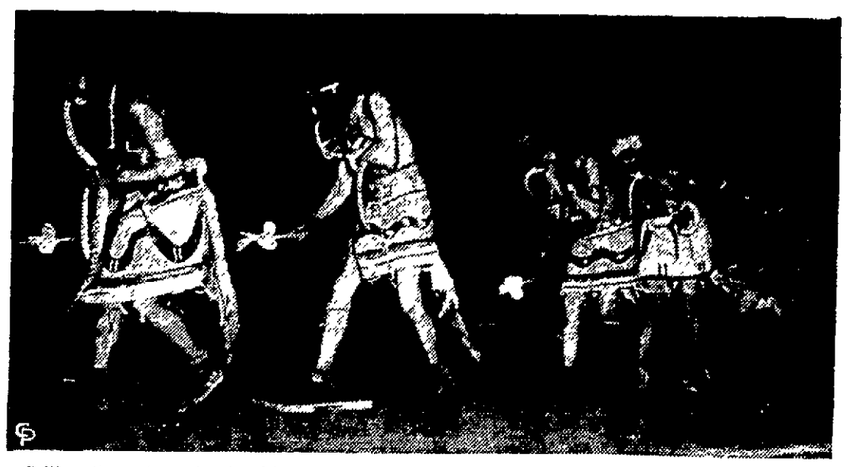
White Men Don Paint for Indian Ceremonial



Calling themselves the Smokis, 150 white men in Prescott, Ariz., each year stage a serious performance of Indian ceremonial dances after six months of rehearsal. Painstaking research has been done to make perfect the details of the ceremonials, which are climaxed by the spectacular Snake dance, above, in which six-foot-long bull snakes dangle from the dancers' teeth and strike viciously, drawing blood from the men's arms, faces and chests.

the American Legion, said he favors giving the president "unlimited power in this, our hour of national emergency."

The following are quotations from Mansfielders interviewed on the legislation:

C. V. Gannaway, store manager—"Congress should take action at once. There has been too much delay and obstruction of the bill already."

Robert Koontz, clerk — "Congress has debated too long now on the matter. The bill should be passed."

Jack Berger, Automobile club—"There should be quick action on the bill. I don't want to run for a bomb shelter."

Charles Kafer, florist — "Why prolong the discussion of the bill when we are going to give aid to the British anyhow?"

E. C. Flory, Mayor South Boulevards—"A continuation of the discussion is merely playing into the hands of the Axis powers. Some limitation of the president's power should be made, however."

R. B. Gardner, former Ohio Legion Commander — "I favor the immediate enactment of the lend-lease bill. In November the great majority of the people saw fit to designate Franklin Delano Roosevelt as their leader and commander-in-chief and so, that he may be able to talk to dictators in the only language they know, I believe he should be given unlimited power in this, our hour of national emergency."

Glenn Bierly, 261 Park Way drive — "It should be adopted quickly. If there is an issue to be met, we should meet it immediately."

Walter L. Beckley, Legionnaire—"I am in favor of immediate passage of the lend-lease bill. It is absolutely necessary."

Mrs. M. W. Giles, 599 Crescent road—"It is well that the opposition to the lend-lease bill has brought about a clarification of some of its many phases. However, there seems to be too much blind hampering for the sake of politics. As a civilized nation, in our modern world we cannot live unto ourselves alone. Other nations' problems just naturally become our problems. Whether we want it so or not, aid to Britain through the lend-lease bill, is our first expedient."

Mrs. C. W. Fuchs, 646 Park avenue west — "I'm in favor of giving Britain all the aid we can but I don't want President Roosevelt to dictate how and when and where. I think he has some ulterior motive. Congress can take care of all the aid America wants to give Britain."

Attorney Earl Nist—"I'm in favor of passage of the bill as a defense measure for the United States and not as aid to Britain. We must stop Hitler first."

Walter E. Rusk, Deputy County Engineer—"Why not declare war on Germany, since we are virtually in it anyway? Why should we go about helping Great Britain fight Hitler and maintain that we are not in the war? I think the lease-lend bill will be passed regardless of our opinions back home."

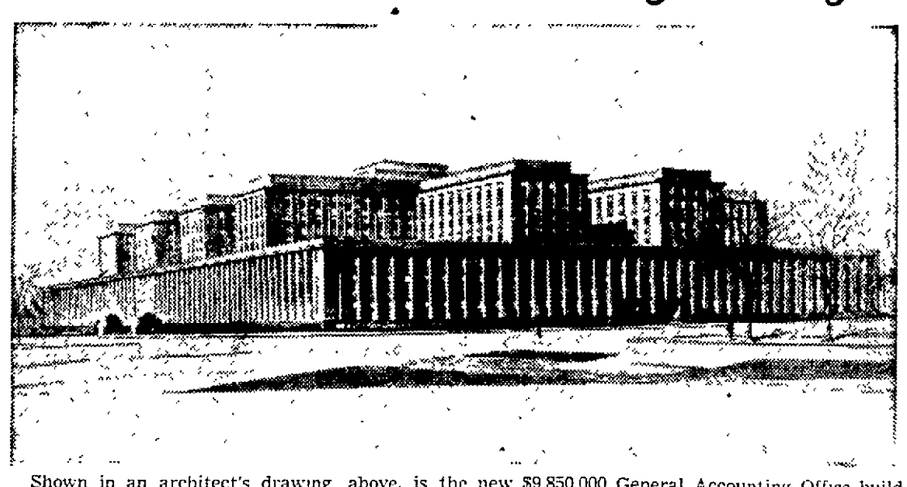
Ralph Hardy, County Republican Executive Committee Chairman—"I'm for the bill with certain reservations. Some of the power it grants should be given to congress unless the nation declares war; we shouldn't go so far as to weaken our own defenses, and there should be some provision made to get something in return from Britain for all we are sending over there."

David Lantz, County Probation Officer—"I favor the lease-lend bill as it has been drafted. Our first line of defense is in England only if we aid her in time and sufficiently."

John Hess, Sales Tax Examiner—"I'm for aid to Britain, but not in the form of a bill that gives as much power to the president as this one does. We send congressmen and senators to Washington to express the views of the people and help run the government."

Both the suicide and homicide rate in the United States declined in 1940.

Plan Government Accounting Building



Shown in an architect's drawing, above, is the new $9,850,000 General Accounting Office building planned in Washington. To be erected on the block bounded by Fourth, Fifth, G and H streets, the new structure will be six stories high and will have office space for 6,000 employes. This view shows the section of the building that will front on Fourth street.

'BIRD KING' DEAD

CHEBOYGAN, Mich.—(U.P.)—Bill King, "the bird king," who lived for years in a small cabin on the shores of Burt Lake, is dead, but many of his partridge friends still come to his doorsteps in hopes of a free meal.

Conservation officers reported that during several of the winter's worst snowstorms, the birds were found huddled in the doorway.

$700 DECREASE

Sales Tax for Week of Feb. 22 Totals $9,031 in County.

Still lagging behind collections last year, Richland county sales tax receipts for the week ending Feb. 22 dropped off $700 from the total collections for the corresponding week of 1940.

State Treasurer Don Ebright's weekly report showed that Richland countians paid $9,031 in sales tax for the third week of last month as compared to $9,731 for the same week in February last year.

The county's collections to date amount to $71,989, or $831 less than receipts for a corresponding period of 1940.

In the entire state, sales tax receipts for the first two months of this year totaled $6,517,690, an increase of $600,000 over the amount collected in the county for a similar period in 1940.

Senate Minority Blocks Action

ENTIRELY without such intention, the United States senate, sometimes seriously referred to as "the greatest deliberative body in the world," is now engaged in demonstrating one of the glaring weaknesses of democracy—the ability of a stubborn, aggressive, well organized or fanatical minority to defeat, or unnecessarily delay action by a substantial majority.

After two weeks of unrestricted "debate," during which opponents of the lease-lend bill have admitted that a vote will result in passage, these opponents—under Wheeler and Clark leadership—reject proposals to limit further speeches on the bill itself or on amendments.

If time-killing talk is permitted to continue, as planned, the real intent of a filibuster will be accomplished without actual resort to that asinine parliamentary procedure.

Except for the few senators who oppose any form of aid to Britain, chief objection to the lease-lend bill seems to hinge on grant of additional powers to the president, especially in the matter of authority to send armed forces abroad.

This can be construed as meaning nothing more than lack of confidence in the president, who is already commander in chief of United States armed forces, and as such has practically unlimited authority in the event of military action.

It was decided last November, by a substantial majority, that President Roosevelt should continue as the chief executive of this nation. Many feel that his inclination to assume increased powers, and his disinclination to relinquish any such powers, creates a dangerous situation. The fact remains, however, that in the present great national and world crisis it is the head of this nation, with such advisers as he may choose, who must be placed in position to deal promptly with whatever emergencies arise.

It has also been evident, for a number of months, that overwhelming numbers of the American people believe that the greatest possible aid to Britain is essential to the security of this country.

The latest poll of the senate shows 55 votes for the lease-lend bill, 25 against and 15 non-committal. Sufficient time has already been given to deliberative debate. If any amendments are to be seriously considered this should be done without tolerance of further time-killing.

While the senate has been stalling Nazi armies have massed in Bulgaria as a threat to Greece and Turkey; air raids over England have been stepped up in intensity and Axis arrogance has become more pronounced. Much as dictator methods may be abhorred, there is a lesson to be learned from their lack of procrastination.

Stalin's Selfish Game

SOVIET RUSSIA is ostensibly an ally of Nazi Germany, but it works out curiously. By any ordinary standard of judgment, Stalin's cynical procedure doesn't make sense. Sometimes he seems to be helping his Axis allies. At other times he seems to be opposing them. Again he appears to be standing off and looking at them cryptically without doing anything.

While Hitler was hesitating about invading Bulgaria, Stalin seemed to ignore the situation. Then when Hitler took his silence for assent, and moved in, Stalin condemned the proceeding.

The reason for such apparently irresponsible performances seems to be that Soviet Russia is never for anybody or anything but Soviet Russia, that Stalin plays a completely selfish game—that he seeks to keep Russia out of war and preserve a balance of power between the other dictatorships and the democracies that are at war with each other. Let Britain make a sudden gain, and Stalin moves to checkmate that or to help Hitler. Let Hitler seize another country, and Stalin disapproves of what his partner has done.

Some observers think he simply aims to wear out both sides and then inherit the world for Communism.

Cities Move To Suppress Gambling

FOR SOME reason that has not yet become quite clear, several of the larger Ohio cities, including Cleveland and Columbus, have been clamping down on gambling operations, even to the extent of banning pinball machines, which at least a few minor courts have held to be "games of skill."

Commenting editorially on this subject the Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "The iniquity of the old-fashioned slot machines has never been questioned, as evidenced by the fact they are known as 'one-armed robbers.' . . . Pinball machines, considered by themselves, have seemed comparatively harmless forms of amusement. . . . But, as Mayor Blythin points out, there are serious evils connected with the pinball industry in Cleveland. . . And, worst of all, a large share of the thousands of dollars which flow into these machines daily, go to the mobs, so that the pocket money of perfectly respectable citizens becomes the working capital for the underworld."

In Columbus police anti-gambling activities have even extended to an attempt to suppress the pernicious "numbers" racket and some cities have outlawed bookie joints. It is at least interesting to know that such things can be done.

An Experiment That Succeeded

SEVEN years ago a farmer named Smith took title to 170 acres of family farm land in Missouri. For two years he worked himself nearly to death, but got nowhere. He used lime and fertilizers to restore the soil's growing power, but too often he watched soil and planting washed away in swift erosion. It had been good land when his father first settled there.

Then Smith began terracing his fields, until now four-fifths of the tillable land on his farm is so protected. The rest will be terraced in another year and even the pastures will have contour furrows run through them.

The results already have been eye-opening. Cockleburs have given place to corn, alfalfa, sweet clover and other crops, and in every case the yield has increased. The land will support twice as much livestock as it did a few years ago.

The county farm agent's records of the annual change in soil productivity show Smith's farm with a yearly gain. Other farms in the region are declining steadily.

The lesson should be valuable to other farmers and reassuring to the general public. Thorough work toward soil restoration and conservation is well worth the labor and cost. Smith now has a farm that repays his toil and is growing regularly more productive and profitable.

Labor Worried Over Civil Rights

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

FROM labor sources principally come hints of some apprehension lest American civil liberty presently may begin to be unduly encroached upon by a possible over-doing of governmental activity in the interest of our defensive program.

If we have subversive elements in our midst, they naturally are perturbed at the idea of any interference with their operations.

I refer, however, to an undercurrent of anxiety indicated by the worried utterances of such spokesmen as President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and Philip Murray, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, who certainly aren't generally regarded as bad characters, even though there's considerable complaint of dangers involved in their respective groups' jurisdictional rivalries.

This class of observers of the situation evidently are especially suspicious of the justice department's Federal Bureau of Investigation, under Chief J. Edgar Hoover.

They maintain that the FBI was the perpetrator of many abuses during the 1919-'24 period and cite quite a few pretty high authorities who said so. Senators Tom Walsh, George W. Norris, William E. Borah, Henry F. Ashurst, Burton K. Wheeler and Smith W. Brookhart investigated the bureau and made congressional reports which denounced it as outright "lawless."

Charles Evans Hughes said its doings "savored of the worst practices of tyranny." Harlan F. Stone accuses it of "violating constitutional safeguards." Felix Frankfurter declared it had "struck at the foundation of American free institutions." They're on the federal supreme bench today, Hughes as chief justice, and he never was considered very radical, either.

Hoover Not Head.

J. Edgar Hoover wasn't head of the bureau then, but he was connected with it.

No charge is made now that the FBI at present is like what it was when Harry M. Daugherty was attorney general and William Burns was his boss detective. The point is made, though, that that showed what sort of an outfit the bureau's capable of degenerating into if a sharp eye isn't kept on it.

What particularly got under labor's hide was the announcement, directly after President Roosevelt's limited emergency proclamation, that the FBI had begun to check up on defense industry's workers, with a view to spotting saboteurs, Communists and miscellaneous fifth columnists among them.

Why, demands labor's leadership, didn't Sleuth Hoover also begin checking up on the workers' employers? Quite a few of the employing concerns, it's emphasized, have since been exposed as alien-owned or controlled, through patents and in other fashions—and controlled by Nazis or Fascists.

Labor's contention is that the check-up's real result, if it goes the limit, will be to keep the workers under employerdom's subjection by branding 'em as traitors if they stand pat for fair pay and conditions, and strike for 'em, however legitimately.

It isn't assumed that that was the limited emergency declaration's original intention, but that's how labor's afraid it will be manipulated, unless it's strictly regulated.

Respect Civil Rights.

One hundred per cent respect of civil rights is what labor's insisting on.

Well, the justice department has a civil rights section.

Compared with the FBI, however, it's a mere pewee, with next to no funds to operate on. The FBI, on the opposite hand, has almost as much money as was blown in on the whole justice department in 1918. Furthermore, it doesn't want the CRS-ection interfering with its investigations by raising civil rights objections to them. And, being enormously more consequential than the CRS, it promptly slaps down on the latter when it attempts to peep above a whisper.

Listen World!

Forget . . . Go on!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MEMORIES—We think of them so romantically. Yet what a blight they can be, draining our strength, shackling our ambition . . . offering us shameful escapes from Reality.

In the first line of Sholem Asch's unforgettable book there is this terrific sentence:

"Not the power to remember, but its very opposite, the power to forget, is a necessary condition of our existence."

"The power to forget"—that's a vital necessity for all of us. And unless and until we attain that power, we will achieve no real growth.

MEMORIES OF THE PAST HAVE WRECKED MORE HUMAN BEINGS THAN ALL THE HANDICAPS AND STRUGGLES IN THE PRESENT.

You cannot carry your Yesterdays with you, be they sweet or sad. If you attempt to do so, they'll make a mess of your Present and a fade-out of your Future.

Have you walked in a forest? Then you will remember the deep, soft wood-loam beneath your feet. That loam was composed of the forest's Yesterdays . . . of all its winter's fallen leaves and rotting twigs . . . its discarded records. They were lovely in their days those leaves and twigs, but when they had served their time, they had to go.

If they had not gone, the forest could not have lived. For trees must shed themselves before they can renew themselves . . . put off the old growth before the new growth comes. Yet the old growth is not really lost. Its strength goes into a life-giving loam in which the tree roots and spreads. But, above the roots, the growing tree must reach out toward new life.

What is law for a tree is law for a man. We, too, must shed our Yesterdays before we can be renewed. We cannot live in the Past and the Present at the same time. We must learn to forget or become drifting ghosts . . . zombies . . . the "living dead."

And this is one of the hardest lessons we humans have to learn, for we are all lonely, frightened children at heart. Desperately we cling to the memories of a gentle mother's face, a kindly father's hand . . . to young years when life was an iridescent bubble.

They are much easier to face than present reality, those years that have gone. Time has drained of the bitterness from them . . . removed the tests . . . turned them into another Shangri-La. Actually, they were never as sweet or secure as we thought they were. But they offer an escape from the pressure of Today and we seize them gratefully.

But we pay a terrible price for that escape. A man must shed his Yesterdays as surely as a tree. If he does not, he will rot.

Yet our Yesterdays need not be lost, if we are willing to give them up. All they contained of love and joy, sturdy adventure, honest regret and real grief will become as loam for fresh new growth . . . if we are willing to go on. "If we would save our lives, we must lose them."

Does that mean that we must never look back? Never remember young joy? Never sit in the twilight, thinking of the dear ones who have gone? Never yearn back with a hungry heart to a slender grave? Of course it doesn't! Memories can be precious as well as pernicious. But we should take them as we take rare brandy—temperately, occasionally. Lest they trap us and turn us into zombies.

Bob White In Peril Again.

The quail has been protected from slaughter in Ohio for 28 years. Since this splendid creature was placed on the song bird list there have been repeated efforts by hunters to legalize quail shooting.

House Bill 276, now pending, proposes to remove quail from the song bird list and to establish an open season in 33 counties in southern and eastern Ohio.

Protests are already pouring in on the legislators demanding that the bill be killed. Petitions are being circulated throughout the state. The friends of Bob White should write now to their representatives and senators in the legislature to be true sportsmen. A real sportsman never shoots Bob White.—Toledo Blade.

Ponder Import Control to Check Rise In Prices of Needed Drugs

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Defense heads are worried lest the U. S. family medicine chest be hard hit by the Mediterranean war. To offset an expected shortage and price rise, they are discussing a plan to set up an import control similar to the export control now in effect on certain strategic materials.

For many years the drug industry has been dependent upon foreign sources for such essential items as belladonna, from the Balkans; nux vomica from India; quinine from the cinchone tree grown mainly in Java; opium from poppies grown in Turkey and Jugoslavia; and gum arabic from the acacia tree in the Sudan.

Virtually all imported botanical drugs can be grown in the United States, but low pre-war prices made it unprofitable. Now, with shipping facilities daily becoming scarcer and costlier, the U. S. faces a serious shortage of these drugs plus soaring prices and profiteering.

Authorities learned that recently, out of a shipment of 1,500 tons of gum arabic—transported by a Greek freighter from Alexandria, Egypt, via the Red sea, the Pacific and Panama Canal to an Atlantic port—one importer got four-fifths of the stock. The remaining one-fifth was distributed among his competitors. This in effect gave him a corner on gum arabic, as, according to defense experts, he obtained what amounts to a three years' supply.

Under an import control all dealers would be treated alike; also the government would be able indirectly to keep a lid on price kiting.

* * *

Domestic Drugs.

MEANWHILE the situation has revived interest in domestic production of botanical drugs. Several state universities have begun experiments, and defense experts say that if this is pursued seriously the country could be made self-sufficient within a year.

Synthetics are still another field for replacements, but they have not been popular and only dire necessity will make their use general.

Note—The price of cod liver oil, leading source of natural vitamin D, has soared from $22 to $75 a barrel. Formerly most of it came from Norway. Food and Drug Bureau experts say it also can be obtained from other fish, including sharks; and are considering an educational campaign to get physicians to prescribe substitutes.

Wrong Number.

A CERTAIN chic young justice department telephone operator is going to be careful about whom she confides in from now on.

The J. D. operators gave a tea and invited the department officials, among them Attorney General Bob Jackson. Very democratic, he approves of these departmental parties and was wandering from one group to another when a very pretty miss took him into tow.

She began pouring out an account of her duties. One of them, she related, was seeing to it that Ugo Carusi, energetic executive assistant of the attorney general, had his phone calls answered promptly.

"He's a very important man," the young lady explained earnestly. "He's the only official in the department who has a red light over his number on the switchboard, and we have strict orders to drop everything when the light flashes and give Mr. Carusi immediate attention."

"He must be important," exclaimed Jackson. "I wonder how one would go about getting that sort of service?"

"Oh, you couldn't get it," was the emphatic reply. "Mr. Carusi is very special."

They chatted a few more minutes and then as Jackson rose to go his hostess remarked, "Say, you're awfully nice. Who are you?"

"The name is Robert Jackson."

"Oh, dear! The boss!"

"Don't worry," said the attorney general, grinning broadly, "it's all right. I won't tell Mr. Carusi on you."

* * *

Bulgarian Minister.

FOR five years, Dimitri Naoumoff has lived in a grey stone house overlooking Rock Creek park, comfortably mingled in the diplomatic circle, comfortably watched trade grow between Bulgaria and the United States.

Ever since Versailles—and before—the United States has been friendly to the aspirations of Bulgaria. Though she was on the German side of World war I, American delegates at the peace conference opposed carving western Thrace from Bulgaria to give it to Greece.

A few years ago, American manufacturers increased the blending of Turkish tobacco with Virginia, and this meant big exports of Bulgaria's Turkish type tobacco.

Naoumoff, as minister to the United States, traveled about the country meeting many of the 90,000 Americans of Bulgarian origin, giving lectures in American colleges, reminding his audiences that there is an American college in Sofia. But all that is over now.

Today, Naoumoff sits in the drawing-room of the grey stone house, with the afternoon sun slanting across the red plush furniture, and wonders what Americans think of his country's lineup with the Axis. The prized tobacco trade is gone, and now what will happen to the treasured friendship? To friends he says he hopes America will have "the wisdom to be generous, and the courage to be just."

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

THE justice department has quietly sent one of its crack trust-busting attorneys to Plymouth, Wis., cheese center of the state, to make a secret probe of certain trade practices involving possible price-fixing. . . . American Legion pals of Gene Kinder, prominent Nebraska veteran, are sore about the White House failure to reward him with a high post for his hefty campaigning for Roosevelt. Kinder was expected to get an important war department appointment, but so far Secretary Stimson has filled every vacancy with a Republican friend. . . . Minnesota's husky Governor Harold Stassen is finding no support among friends of District Attorney Tom Dewey for his presidential ambitions. They claim Stassen had committed himself to Dewey before the Philadelphia convention, and nurse a grudge because of his flop to Willkie.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It was just a little more than a year ago that Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse walked into Howard Cullman's office and said, "Look. We've got what we think is a pretty good property. It's a play based on Clarence Day's 'Life With Father.' You can get in on it if you want to."

"Fine," said Cullman, and wrote out a check for $5,000.

It should be stated that risking five grand is not necessarily a nervy gamble for Howard Cullman, who is several times a millionaire and who is an experienced hand at investing in Broadway adventures. Nor is his judgment always infallible. He knows what it means to crouch in the aisles and watch the turkeys flutter out the stage door, bearing his greenbacks with them. But he does have a knack, or a gift, or maybe it is just the luck, to win more often than he loses. So in this instance he put on five thousand—and already, so I am told, his return is in excess of $75,000.

* * *

CULLMAN is one of those curious products of the Big Street who came to the theater through its back door. In private life he is vice chairman of the Port Authority of New York, a trustee of the Beekman Street hospital, and a tobacco man.

He obtained his theatrical baptism some years ago when the affected interests asked him to take over the Roxy theater and try to pull it out of the red. Until it was eclipsed by the Music Hall, the Roxy was a sort of ornate, gaudy eighth wonder of the Manhattan world. It was, and is, a cinema house on 7th Ave. at 50th street, and in those days it was something to talk about. But it earned no dividends for its stockholders. This was the signal for Cullman to arrive upon the scene, and they say he did a first rate job.

* * *

CULLMAN today is only 48. As vice chairman of the Port Authority of New York his duties are chiefly concerned with the Holland tunnel, the Lincoln tunnel, and the George Washington bridge. As a trustee of the Beekman street hospital he has a voice in its operations, and therefore, indirectly, in the destinies of thousands of patrons who enter its doors every year. As a tobacco man he likes to present his friends with personally embossed cigars. Howard Lindsay's, for instance, say, "These cigars were made, especially for Howard Lindsay."

During his off moments, however, Cullman is an alert show hawk with a fat check book. Sometimes he misses. He was in on a turkey not so long ago that cost him $20,000. But this year, besides "Life With Father," he is in on "Charley's Aunt," which is a money maker, and he has a part of "Old Acquaintances" with Peggy Wood and Jane Cowl which is also a thriving little investment. In sum, he is a good man for prospective producers with plays on their hands to know.

A Farmer's Diary

A Water Snake

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE five-year-old came running into the kitchen out of breath, and pulled his mother over to the window. "See—out there on the bank above the spring—a snake! He looks like he's dead, but he isn't! Shall I kill him? There—now he's sticking out his tongue. He did that to me—and his eyes are funny! They don't have any tops on 'em, like ours do. Where did he come from, do you think? Shall I kill him?"

"Ask Daddy," suggested mother.

"Do you see any holes in the bank next to the water?" I asked.

"Yes—there are eight—one little enough for a baby mouse to crawl into. There's snow on the bank above—he's out awfully early, isn't he? Shall I kill him?"

I assented. The little boy hurried to the cellar and got the spade. I saw him climb the stone steps with his weapon of death on his shoulder. Stealthily he moved behind the bramble and stopped within two feet of his victim. He balanced the spade above his head, took careful aim and struck the reptile's neck, pinning it into the ground. Then he loaded it, still writhing, on the spade and carried it proudly up to the kitchen door.

It was three feet long, with a coat of blotched, dingy brown. This type are out earlier than the first spring birds and do not roam far from the water. Last summer I saw a mature snake of this kind swallow a leopard frog, and another floated along the pond breast in four inches of water and pounced upon a fish five inches long, swallowing it tail first—not without some difficulty. To my way of thinking it must have been painful diet.

Water snakes multiply very rapidly. Each female will bring forth alive in a single season as many as 30 or 40 young. During a single summer these growing, greedy hordes could clean out all the water insects, minnows, salamanders, frogs and toads of a stream or swamp.

Our boys will hunt and kill the water snakes.

GIVES TALK ON GLACIAL DRIFT IN COUNTY AREA

Dr. Jacobs of Ashland College Says Richland and Ashland Counties Top State.

ASHLAND—"No other locality in Ohio is richer in glacial drift than that around Mansfield and Ashland, where there is a swell and swail topography" declared Dr. E. E. Jacobs, president emeritus of Ashland college when he addressed the student body Thursday. Dr. Jacobs is professor of geology and possesses a valuable collection of geological specimens.

His subject Thursday was "The Geology of Ohio and Some of Its Social Implications." "It is not generally known that Ohio is a state of outstanding mineral wealth, but it actually is," stated Dr. Jacobs. He spoke then of the great extent of its sandstone quarries, the almost limitless limestone around Sandusky, and the flint, gypsum, coal, oil, gas and salt found elsewhere.

The professor continued, "Ohio sustains a very diversified type of agriculture with the interior and westward, being well adapted to the staple farm cereals while near Lake Erie, soil conditions are peculiarly well fitted to vine and fruit culture.

"Indeed, no other state surpasses Ohio in the diversity, not only of its farming, but of its industries in general. The marginal beds of prehistoric lakes, such as Lake Maumee, Lake Whittlesy, Lake Warren, and the fringes of what is now Lake Erie, give the north central and northwestern part of the state a unique topography."

Speaking of the surface of Ohio Dr. Jacobs said that the surface, from west to east, represents the remains of six very ancient landscapes, all having emerged from the primordial sea many hundreds of millions of years ago. He pictured a drive from Cincinnati to Marietta one in which one would cover many ancient landscapes starting at Cincinnati with the very ancient Paleozoic, going next to the Ordovician, then entering the Silurian, then the Devonian around Monroeville, near Mansfield the Mississipian, near Mt. Gilead, the Pennsylvanian, rich in oil and coal and ending up on the Permian at Marietta.

SAYS HE'LL RUN

Shelby Mayor Announces He'll Be Candidate Again.

SHELBY—Mayor W. R. Morris today announced himself as a candidate for re-election for a second term.

Mentioned as possible candidates to oppose Mayor Morris have been Bert Fix, Sharon township clerk who held the city's finance post here for 28 years, and First Ward Councilman Kenneth Rothlisberger, Shelby truck operator. Fix supported Morris in his campaign at the last election and is not expected to turn against him this year.

Petitions are not expected to be circulated by candidates here for several more months.

$600 FOR GREEKS

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus' Greek Relief fund reached $687.35 today, George H. Davis, Bucyrus restaurant proprietor and member of the local committee, announced. A check for $600 has already been forwarded to Greece by Mayor W. F. Whitemire, chairman of the committee. The committee will continue to collect funds to be used in helping Greeks who have received injuries in Greece's war against Italy.

VERDICT UPHELD

BUCYRUS—A verdict of the Crawford county courts, by which James Teat was awarded $2,500 in his alienation of affections suit against Vernon Stiner, was upheld by the state supreme court Thursday. Teat charged that Stiner had alienated the affections of Teat's wife.

SOCIETIES MEET

Women's Organizations of 3 Churches Hold Session.

CRESTLINE—Meetings of Aid societies of three Crestline churches were held Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Ed Sprow of Galion, president of the Reformed church society, presided for that group's meeting, and following an afternoon of sewing a potluck supper was served.

Mrs. L. M. Niswander opened her home for the meeting of the Presbyterian society and associate hostesses were Mrs. Charles Epley and Mrs. Charles Byers. Mrs. C. E. Iman presided when plans for a cafeteria supper were discussed and plans made for a tea honoring Mrs. Ella McCulley at her home on Wiley street. The devotionals were led by Mrs. Roy Donaldson.

The society of the English Lutheran church met at the church with Mrs. C. E. Marshal in charge.

BURIED IN FOSTORIA

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held in Fostoria today for Mrs. Jennie Loomis, 80, resident of Bucyrus for 20 years, who died at the home of her son, Jack Stiffler, Wednesday. Mrs. Loomis left Bucyrus in January this year to make her home with her son. Another son, Alton, Bucyrus, and two daughters, Eva Humbert, Kansas, O., and Florence Frye, Bucyrus, survive.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE GROUPS HOLD MEETINGS AT GALION

GALION—A silver guest tea was held Thursday afternoon by the members of Section I of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church, at the home of Mrs. Otto Carmel. There were 35 present. Mrs. Russell Smith extended a greeting, and the devotions were led by Mrs. M. D. Bonsteel. The program featured a group of songs by Mrs. H. C. Ryon with Mrs. Elmo Willis at the piano; a story given by Mrs. Ralph Spaid; reading by Annabelle Chapman; and piano numbers played by Joanne Carmel.

Three other sections of the society also held meetings Thursday. Mrs. Peter Rettig opened her home to the members of Section A, and was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Chester Stover, Mrs. Homer Kelly, Mrs. Ida Mink and Mrs. Willard Eichler. Program numbers were presented by Mary Mather and Mrs. Kelly, and contests were won by Pearl Jourdan and Miss Mather.

Section D met at the home of Mrs. Sam Kolfer with 27 members and four guests present.

A display of pitchers was featured at the meeting, with prizes awarded as follows: Mrs. A. Snyder, for the oldest pitcher; Mrs. A. J. Soll for the largest pitcher and also for the greatest number of pitchers displayed; Mrs. Carl Shaw for the smallest pitcher; and Mrs. George Kirkland for the prettiest pitcher. A parcel post sale was conducted, and those presenting the program were Mrs. J. R. Rhodebeck, Mrs. Bert Flowers, Mrs. C. F. Monroe and Mrs. Kolfer. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. C. F. Monroe, Mrs. William Keller, and Mrs. George Garverick.

Mrs. Mary Zimmer was co-hostess and also conducted the devotional service when Section S met at the home of Mrs. J. G. White. Plans were made to hold a potluck supper next month at the home of Mrs. Lester Ritz.

ALFRED NOYES TELLS GALION AUDIENCE MODERNS LACK DEPTH

GALION—In his lecture on "Literature and Life," in Galion last night Alfred Noyes, born and educated in England, contrasted modern literature with the English classics.

His appearance on the stage of Senior high school auditorium, Thursday night, was sponsored by the Quill and Scroll, national honorary journalism fraternity, of Galion high school.

He declared that modern phrases and poetry are only bringing people to the surface and not to reality. Intellectuals of today are not intelligent, he charged. There has been a wave of wickedness for nearly 50 years sweeping over our literature, he said. Much of today's literature is an attack against Christiandom, he charged, and if it succeeds there is no hope for our civilization.

Pledges are being broken in domestic and family relations, and yet these same people expect political pledges to be kept, Dr. Noyes said.

He gave several of his poems during the lecture to illustrate his points, and closed by reciting "The Highwayman," one of his dramatic poems.

Last night's program was the fourth consecutive program of celebrated personalities which has been given in Galion in as many years under the auspices of the Quill and Scroll of which Gertrude E. Mann is sponsor. In 1938 Richard Halliburton came to Galion; Louis Bromfield was here in 1939; and last year Cornelia Otis Skinner appeared.

Patrons of the program last night were L. M. Liggett, Harold Newman, Lawrence Place, Harry Cobey, Horace Place, George Hornstein, Ralph Cobey, J. S. and Ralph E. Boyd, Walter Mason, Gerald Berting, Mrs. Ira Armstrong, Edgar Beall, Martin Goodman, Mrs. Armin Hornstein, E. R. Pickering and O. E. Hill.

LODGE MEETS

Crestline Masons Conduct Annual Inspection.

CRESTLINE — The annual inspection of Arcana lodge No. 272, F. and A. M., was held at a special meeting Wednesday evening in Masonic temple.

Thomas A. Reber of Upper Sandusky, deputy grand master of the 16th Masonic district, was the inspecting officer and he commended the officers on their work and the condition of the records.

T. R. Oliphant, worshipful master, presided and the Master Mason degree was exemplified, one candidate receiving the degree.

Visitors were present from Alliance, Ft. Wayne, Upper Sandusky, Mt. Gilead, Mansfield, Bucyrus, Shelby, and Galion.

LAUNCH FARM BUREAU DRIVE

BUCYRUS — Initial organization meetings incident to the Crawford County Farm Bureau membership campaign, which opens Monday, will be held tonight in Whetstone school.

Township captains will attend the session which will be in charge of C. R. Snyder, district leader.

Monday night the northwest section of the county will meet at the Earl Ross home in Holmes township and Tuesday night a meeting will be held at the Floyd Adams home in Texas township.

Commanders of the sections are Clarence Snyder, south townships; Wooster Riedel, northwest townships, and Jacob Kalk, northeast townships.

TIMELY TOPICS CLUB PRESENTS LIBRARY BOOK

'Come What May' Tells Story of Author's Career as a Journalist, Athlete.

The Catholic Book of the Month club's choice for March is Arnold Lunn's autobiography, "Come What May," and it has been presented to the Mansfield Public library by members of the Timely Topics club.

The story of the author's varied career as a journalist, debater and athlete mirrors the roving restless personality of the man. A quiet childhood in a Victorian household, the rough-and-tumble of the pre-World war days, mountaineering in the days when many a peak was still unclimbed, war, sports, politics in Poland, Spain, Italy, Germany and Austria; teaching at Notre Dame all help to form the framework on which the book is built.

New fiction:

Hepburn Dinwoodie writes of a land in which she is genuinely interested—Labrador. ALL THE WORLD AND I is Alec Hardy's story. Part Welsh, part Indian, he clings to his wilderness life as trapper and fisherman. The call of the land is in his blood. He is deeply suspicious of an Empire-at-war. Yet his love for Flora, his brother's enlistment both make him feel the pull of far horizons.

WINGED CITADEL by Kristmann Gudmundsson is a romantic tale of ancient Crete and of the young Macedonian who became the last Minos and fell in battle when the barbarians destroyed Cnossus. Translated from the Norwegian by Barrows Mussey.

DUCKS IN THUNDER by Jay Dratler tells of a bold young American's rescue of a German friend's sweetheart from the Gestapo in Vienna. The two escape by train and bus, on foot and on skiis out of Austria and across the mountains, take the plane for Paris, but arrive too late. The Gestapo had already caught up with Hans.

Others on this list:—"THE 17" by Washburn,

THE WORLD IS LIKE THAT, Norris, DEATH BY DYNAMITE, Bonney.

Recent non-fiction:

GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE is a typical Hart-Kaufman comedy that will appeal to anybody who has ever built a house in the country or dreams of building one. It is a record of the Fuller family, Newton and his wife, Annabelle, and their daughter, Madge, who are hypnotized into taking over one of those windowless, waterless, almost roofless stone houses that dot the picturesque Pennsylvania countryside. The ensuing troubles make up a thoroughly enjoyable play and one full of laughter. "You Can't Take It With You" is an earlier play by the same authors.

A HOME OF YOUR OWN AND HOW TO RUN IT by Henrietta Ripperger is a practical and lighthearted manual which bids fair to become the Housekeepers' Hoyle. It is addressed to the bewildered bride who doesn't know a skillet from a skewer, and to the seasoned housekeeper who refuses to get into a rut. The author shows how housekeeping can become a creative activity, and the housekeeper a true career woman. The book is arranged so that it can be read through with pleasure and consulted like an encyclopedia in times of crisis.

COME UNTO THESE YELLOW SANDS by Earl Schenk is both a tale of personal adventure and a glowing picture of the islands and island people that have had a perennial fascination for the white man. Tahiti, Samoa, Fiji, the Marquesas, the Islands under the Wind—all these and many more appear in these pages as only an artist, a story teller and a born lover of the primitive could picture them.

Other non-fiction: ENGLAND'S HOUR, by Brittain; FREEDOM, edited by Anshen; SALT OF THE EARTH, Holmes; WINGS ON MY FEET, Henie; BIG FUN BOOK, Meyer; SHRUBS IN THE GARDEN AND THEIR LEGENDS, Quinn; MOTHER'S ANTHOLOGY edited by Phelps; BROADWAY IN REVIEW, Brown; I CHOSE DENMARK, Hackett; UNOBSTRUCTED UNIVERSE, White.

'The Kid' Becomes a Soldier

The one-time child movie star Jackie Coogan is pictured getting a fond farewell from Virginia Langdon as he prepares to board a train at Los Angeles for Fort MacArthur, San Pedro, Cal., where he will begin his year's military service. He hopes to become an air corps pilot.

ROTARY CLUBS TO MEET HERE

Prof. W. E. Binkley of Ohio Northern To Speak Tuesday at Inter-City Session.

Mansfield Rotarians will be hosts Tuesday, March 11 to an inter-city meeting of Rotary clubs, to be attended by approximately 125 club members from this city, Ashland and Loudonville.

Speaker at the meeting will be Professor W. E. Binkley, who teaches history and political science at Ohio Northern university, at Ada.

Also attending the meeting will be Harry D. Poulston, Lima, governor of the 157th district of Rotary International, of which Mansfield is a part.

Subject of Prof. Binkley's talk had not been announced today, but he was expected to discuss world events as they affect this country.

Poulston is expected to outline plans for the district convention, which will be held at Sandusky May 14 and 15. The Mansfield meeting is one of a series being arranged to stir interest in the district convention.

H. W. Arlin, member of the Mansfield club, is in charge of arrangements for next Tuesday's meeting, which will be held in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The regular Tuesday noon meeting of the Mansfield club will not be held.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Boys who are thinking what their work will be when they grow up will not want to miss the two new books released this week in the children's room at the Mansfield Public library. The first is a story and the other is based on actual facts about the work certain men do.

MORGAN'S FOURTH SON, by M. I. Ross—The Morgan farm was thought by some to be a show place but to the Morgan's and to Scott Dean who tells the story it was Mr. Morgan's life work. Tom is the fourth son of the family and he and Scott learn to farm correctly and profitably through their membership in the 4-H club.

MEN WITHOUT FEAR, by John J. Floherty—The work these men do is only for those who have no fear. In return for their services they may earn much or little, but a glance at the table of contents will explain that at least each one must have his share of excitement as he performs his duty.

Great Lakes Fleet Looks for Record Ore Shipments

CARRIERS SET FOR RACE TO BOOST STOCKS

Freigth Experts Expect Total Figure This Year Will Be Far Greater Than '29.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—When the ice breaks up, the longhulled iron ore carriers of the Great Lakes fleet will slip out of winter quarters in a race to pile up stocks of raw material for steel mills, the war industry's first line of production.

The men who operate the "ships behind the lines" look for a record-smashing season on the world's greatest inland waterways system.

Steel output already has soared to record figures in preliminary phases of defense industry expansion, and reserves of ore from the ranges far up the lakes have been disappearing into the jaws of giant blast furnaces.

Veterans of the Great Lakes shipping trade predict ore shipments this year will exceed by far the record of more than 65 million gross tons set in 1929. Estimates go as high as 84,000,000 tons.

Most of the guns, shells, machinery, trucks, ships and other items of national defense will have their origin in the rusty-orange dirt from the ranges of northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, particularly the latter.

It is the job of the freighters to move a mountain of ore to the lower lake ports so the glow and smoke of steel mills in the midwest, the Mahoning valley and the Pittsburgh district will continue to signify "all out" production of steel.

Steel is operating at near capacity. More furnaces are being added.

From the upper lakes comes reports of unusual activity in the ore fields. Mines long idle will be re-opened.

The principal ingredients of steel—iron ore and iron and steel scrap—are being used at rates never before known. Scrap is not plentiful, and ore stocks on the lower lakes will be down to 12 million gross tons by May 1, about 6 to 8 million tons below normal.

Winter ice creates the bottleneck of the supply lines. Northern Minnesota, whence comes the greatest volume of rich ore, has severe winters. Lake Superior freezes over, and thick layers of ice choke the lake's narrow outlets until April or May. Navigation must await the softening effects of the spring sun and warm winds.

On the first downward trips, the ore carriers must crunch through Whitefish bay, on the eastern tip of Lake Superior. In order to reach lakes Michigan and Huron, they must clear through ice-jammed locks of Sault Ste. Marie—"the Soo"—paralleling the St. Mary's river.

The earliest date for Lake Superior navigation was April 6, in 1902 and the latest May 14, in 1885. Storms, ice and higher insurance rates close the season about Dec. 10.

Freighters take coal up to the northern ports and bring ore back. Sometimes they go up "light," without cargoes or with partial cargoes, for coal shipments never equal ore shipments. Last year, a record was set when approximately 46 million tons of bituminous coal were taken north. Shippers expect a similar figure this year.

Is This Nazi Offer for Turkish Neutrality?

In an effort to persuade Turkey to remain neutral while Germany moves against the Greeks, the Nazis are reported to have offered restoration of Syria to the Turks. This mandated territory, lost by Turkey in the World war, is now under French control and the French army in the Near East might object to the transfer. Nazi troops are massed at the Greek (1) and Turk (2) borders.

Old-Time Dancers Pose a Problem For Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Those old-fashioned dances are quite a problem to the movie makers.

For instance, it took Director Archie Mayo and his crew almost an entire day to film Alice Faye and Cesar Romero doing the Bunny Hug, a hot ballroom favorite of the first World war days, for a sequence in "The Great American Broadcast."

The trouble, however, was not with Alice and Cesar. It was with the dress extras. They were all rather young and a good many of them had never heard Bunny Hug, much less danced it.

Repeatedly, one or the other of the couples forgot what they were doing and lapsed into a modern dance. Director Mayo finally solved the problem by forcing each couple to move in a circle not more than three feet in diameter. That hobbled the extras to such an extent they couldn't swing out and Mayo finally got his sequence.

WAR CURTAILS X-RAYS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass — (UP) — War has curtailed the exchange of X-ray shadowgraphs of paintings between Harvard University's Fogg Art Museum and English and French museums. Director Edward W. Forbes says only nine such prints were obtained last year from the National Gallery in London and none from Paris.

WALKS ON NEEDLE

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—She was walking on needles for fourteen years—that is, a part of one needle. Mrs. Mark Edgar, stepped on a needle fourteen years ago when she was a high school student. But upon removing it, she noticed the head was missing and decided it had been broken off before it ran into her heel. The pain recently appeared and she consulted a doctor who x-rayed and operated.

"Why Do We Love the Paper, All?"

THOMAS WOLFE
(1900–1938)

"How often have we read the paper!

How often have we seen it blocked against our doors!

Little route-boys fold and block it, so to throw it—and so we find it and unfold it, crackling and ink-laden, at our doors.

Sometimes we find it tossed there lightly with flat plop; sometimes we find it thrown with solid, whizzing whack against the clapboards; sometimes servants find just freshly folded sheets laid neatly down in doorways, and take them to the table for their masters. No matter how it got there, we always find it. How we do love the paper! How we do love the paper, all!

Why do we love the paper? Why do we love the paper, all?

Mad masters, I will tell ye why.

Because the paper is 'the news', and we love the smell of news . . ."

From: "You Can't Go Home Again" by THOMAS WOLFE

IN THIS PASSAGE, which appears in the current best-seller, "You Can't Go Home Again," the late Thomas Wolfe painted a realistic picture of what the news and the newspaper mean to all of us. In the two years since Wolfe's death, world events have made both the news and the newspaper more important than ever in people's lives. And this has made newspaper space, long recognized as the basic advertising medium, more valuable than ever to advertisers.

COUNTESS WALDECK GIVES FINAL TALK

Appears at Last Luncheon-Lecture of Season for Mansfield Federation of Women; Speaks on European Situation.

THE FINAL LECTURE in the series presented before members of the Mansfield Federation of Women was given at 11 a. m. yesterday at the Ohio theater by Countess Waldeck, who returned from a ten months' stay in Europe only Monday. Mrs. Lester Redding, president, introduced the speaker who painted a word picture of the European situation for an audience of several hundred women.

Most thought-provoking idea presented by the Countess was that no matter what happens in Europe there will be no return to the republican or democratic past. Europe will remain national socialistic or fascist in some form, and England's only way of winning the war, according to the speaker, is to adopt national socialistic policies.

"Hitler," she pointed out, "can organize Europe economically, but not mentally, socially and morally."

"The Fuhrer is fundamentally a German, not a European, and in that he will meet failure," the Countess predicted, after pointing out that he has a complete monopoly of power.

She discussed the Rumanian capitulation which she pointed out was brought about by means of German economic aid—the intensified agriculture and by Germany becoming a market for the Balkans.

In an effort to clarify the present picture, the speaker explained that the reason the Italians entered the war was to intensify the national feeling which was being lost, and because Mussolini did not feel that England would hold out, and that therefore the entire fracas would be over in a month.

The Countess, an internationally known German journalist, is now consultant on foreign news to Newsweek magazine. She contributes to a number of other leading American periodicals. She was born into a wealthy Mannheim banking family, and served in the twenties and thirties as a roving European correspondent for the then powerful Ullstein chain of German newspapers.

She received her doctorate at Heidelberg university and went as an apprentice economist to a Berlin banking firm, before going to Paris as a special writer and correspondent.

Luncheon was served at the Women's Club following the lecture. The next federation meeting will be the annual meeting and tea at 2:30 p. m. April 8. Atty. Marshall C. Moore will speak on "The Trend Away From the Courts."

Missionary Has Program Before Women's Group

Appropriate oriental decorations were used in the library of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon when members of the Women's association entertained with a Chinese tea. Mrs. Charles Fox conducted a brief business meeting, and Mrs. H. T. Seneff took charge of the program.

M. Gardner Tewksbury, Wooster, returned missionary, spoke on China, and Mrs. Lillian Kiplinger gave the devotions. Musical selections were by the violin quartet directed by Mrs. E. D. Gibson. The members are Richard Beilstein, George Porterfield, William Klinger, and Allen Sanford. Walter Simon was accompanist.

Hostesses were Mrs. Russell Gimbel, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler, Mrs. R. N. Emerson, Mrs. E. W. Loughridge, Mrs. Thornton Moore and Mrs. Peter Young. The next association meeting will be held April 3 at the church with Miss Ruth West giving the program. There will be a book review program for members of the Pilgrim guild on March 11 with Mrs. John W. Graham as hostess for a 1 o'clock luncheon.

Several Talks Given At Woodville Session

There were 30 members of the Woodville Mothers club present yesterday at the school when Mrs. Fred Patterson led the devotions, and Rev. E. G. Corwin spoke on "Motherhood: A Divine Blessing." Mrs. Lewis Cashell gave a paper on "The Bible and Education."

Miss Frances Wolfe's room won the attendance prize, and the contest winners were Mrs. L. Hughes and Mrs. Nora Bentley. Eugene Calver gave a tap dance, and Maxine Uhl played several guitar selections. Mrs. Paul Tucker and her committee were in charge of the luncheon. Mrs. Patterson was presented with a cake in honor of her birthday. The next meeting will be held April 2.

Attendant Has Spinster Party For Bride-Elect

Miss Frances Strickler feted Miss Bette Penhorwood, bride-elect of Richard R. Stander, with a spinster dinner party yesterday evening at her home on Park avenue west. The dinner was served to eight guests at a long table, centered with a bouquet of spring flowers.

The group made a bride's book for the honoree during the evening, and the hostess presented her with a gift of silver. Miss Mariann Stander, sister of the bridegroom, is giving the rehearsal dinner for the couple at the Mansfield-Leland hotel this evening.

Miss Penhorwood and Mr. Stander will be married at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening before the altar of St. Luke's Lutheran church, with Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Miss Carolyn Woltmann will be Miss Penhorwood's maid-of-honor, while Miss Strickler and Miss Stander are to be the bridesmaids. Mr. Stander has chosen Edwin Jellif to be his best man, while Milton Dudley of Cleveland, John Burns, Robert McCormick and William Black will serve as the ushers.

To Live In Hollywood

Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Potts who were married yesterday afternoon here. The couple will make their home in Hollywood, Cal.

Informally Speaking...

HIS Mansfield friends will be interested in learning that James Richardson, youngest son of Mrs. Della Richardson, has accepted a position in the personnel department of the Fisher Body Cleveland Division of the General Motors corporation. . . . Jim attended Ohio State and Kent State universities, having recently completed work at the latter institution. . . . He will receive his degree in the annual June graduating ceremonies. While in college, he was a member and officer of Delta Upsilon and Phi Beta Phi fraternities. . . . Majoring in labor relations, Jim also was a pledge of Delta Kappa Psi, honorary business fraternity. . . . His other activities included the presidency of his co-operative house, vice presidency of Wesley Foundation and Y. W. C. A. work—as well as membership in the Commerce club, International Relations club and Men's union. . . . In choosing personnel as a career, Jim is following in the footsteps of his brother, Sherman, who is director of employe relations for the Pennsylvania Central Airlines.

These are busy days for Eugene L. Miller, a freshman in the college of business administration at the University of Toledo, as he's playing the part of "Julius Caesar," in a streamlined version of the one by Shakespeare, rewritten by Orson Welles and Roger Hill. Twenty-one of the college students are taking part in the play, which is being presented tonight and tomorrow night at the Henry J. Doermann theater in the University hall—oh yes, it was given last night, too.

AND while we're still on the subject of collegians, I mustn't forget to tell you that Walter Ziegler has been initiated into the Latin club at Ohio Wesleyan university down in Delaware. . . . Membership in the organization is gained by the student having taken a certain number of courses in the Latin department at the school, and having maintained a reasonably high scholastic average. . . . Each spring members of the group present an Easter play in Latin and hold a banquet in typical Roman style. . . . Walter, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ziegler, is a junior at Wesleyan this year and is majoring in business administration. . . . He's also a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity there.

* * *

AND IN CONCLUSION: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Burkhart are among the sun-seekers from Mansfield who are vacationing in Florida at Ft. Lauderdale. . . . And Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lindeman have just returned from a vacation which took them to Miami, Fla. . . . They were accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. F. Ford of Attica, and en route home, they stopped off at Ft. Knox, Ky. . . . Sue Kozik left this week for Washington, D. C., where she will take over a government position.

Ada Mae Harbaugh Heads Treble Choir

The annual meeting of the Treble choir was held in the form of a dinner party at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, Highland avenue, Wednesday evening. Officers were elected. They are Ada Mae Harbaugh, president; Mary Palmer, vice president; Marjorie Bushnell, secretary; Helen Ann Troll, treasurer, and Betty Smart, librarian.

Plans were made for the concert to be given jointly with the duo piano team, Thelma Reed and Margaret B. Hall, at Bellville, March 27. The group also made arrangements to give a Mother's day vesper service.

Various Circles Have Luncheons, Afternoon Events

Circle members of the First Presbyterian church had their final meetings of the year yesterday, with a re-organizational meeting scheduled to be held at the church on April 3. Mrs. R. J. Hammer was hostess to members of Circle One at her home on Dickson parkway.

There were 18 members and three guests, Mrs. W. R. King, Mrs. David N. Roller and Mrs. Andrew Theiss, in attendance, and the associate hostesses included Mrs. Mary Diemer and Mrs. Harry Buchan. During the program, Mrs. Walter Goodenough told of a visit to Glendale Memorial park in Glendale, Calif. Mrs. C. W. Chew presided at the floraly decorated table, when tea was served. Devotions were led by Mrs. Lucy Williams.

PLAN EVENTS.

Plans were completed for a covered-dish dinner at the home of Mrs. Edward Hinz, Park avenue west road, yesterday when members of Beta Kappa Tau met at the club rooms. Mrs. Richard Darling was elected secretary to replace Miss Pauline Folmer who has a leave of absence. In addition to the dinner for pledges March 13 there will be a skating party for them March 17. The next regular meeting will be held March 20.

MISS FONKALSRUD BRIDE OF WESTERNER

Exchanges Vows With A. Claude Potts at Family Home Yesterday Afternoon With Father Officiating.

DR. A. O. FONKALSRUD officiated at the wedding ceremony of his daughter, Marjorie, and A. Claude Potts of Hollywood, Cal., yesterday afternoon at the family home, 508 Forest avenue. Nuptial vows were exchanged before members of the immediate family at 2 o'clock.

The bride was attired in a soldier blue ensemble with flower hat and matching accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of orchids, and her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Dinner was served to the wedding party at the Mansfield-Leland hotel immediately after the ceremony, and later in the day the couple left for an extended southern trip, which will take them back to California late in May.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. She attended Capitol university, the Columbus School of Art and Ohio Wesleyan university.

Mr. Potts, who is the son of Mrs. Mary Potts of Wichita Falls, Tex., is a film stunt player in Hollywood. He plays comedy parts in western pictures and is a double for Smiley Burnette, who plays in the Gene Autry pictures. Mr. Pitts' most recent part was in "The Arkansas Judge" with the Weaver brothers. He and his wife are planning to make their home in Hollywood.

Central Society Meets at Church

A business meeting was conducted yesterday morning by Mrs. Ruth Orcutt when members of the Women's Society of Christian Service met at the Central Methodist church. Mrs. William Bortscheller and her committee served the noon luncheon to the 65 members, and a program followed in the afternoon.

Mrs. L. E. Strain led the devotions, and Mrs. J. C. Stout was in charge of the program. Miss Mary Dotson and Mrs. A. T. Owen reviewed a part of the study book "Investing Our Heritage," while Mrs. Verne Hoffman, Mrs. M. L. Erich and Mrs. L. D. Connor gave chapters from the study book "Dangerous Opportunities."

Musical selections were given by a quartet composed of Mrs. Retta Bonar, Mrs. J. C. Stout, Mrs. Charles Birch and Mrs. L. A. Ogborn. The next meeting will be held at the church April 3.

Final Affair In Honor of Bride Given By Cousin

The final party in a series of post-nuptial affairs honoring Mrs. John M. McCabe was given yesterday evening by her cousin, Mrs. Earl Herrick, at her home on Cline avenue. Mrs. McCabe was formerly Miss Marianne Springer.

Guests at the party made a bride's book for the honoree. Luncheon was served at a late hour at a long table, centered with an electric mixer, the gift from the guests. Miniature figures of chefs encircled the mixer, and red streamers with name tags attached led from them to the places of the guests.

Fiesta colors predominated in the scheme of the decorations. The hostess presented Mrs. McCabe with an electric roaster in honor of the occasion. In addition to members of the honoree's sorority, Gamma chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma, the guests included her mother, Mrs. William A. Springer; her aunt, Mrs. Clarence Skinner, and Mrs. John Catlett.

How To Relieve Distress Of FEMALE PERIODIC COMPLAINTS

Few women today do not suffer some distress from monthly functional disturbances, causing some to get nervous, cranky, mildly depressed a couple of days before, with dark circles under eyes, an uncomfortable bloated heaviness—others to feel weak, "dragged out" for a couple of days afterward.

If YOU'RE troubled this way—try famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made especially for women to help quiet unstrung nerves, relieve monthly pain and distress from these periodic disturbances.

Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Famous for 60 years. Hundreds of thousands of women benefited! Worth trying!

FOR LENT 2 HEARTY MAIN DISHES FOLKS ASK FOR AGAIN AND AGAIN!

RECIPE

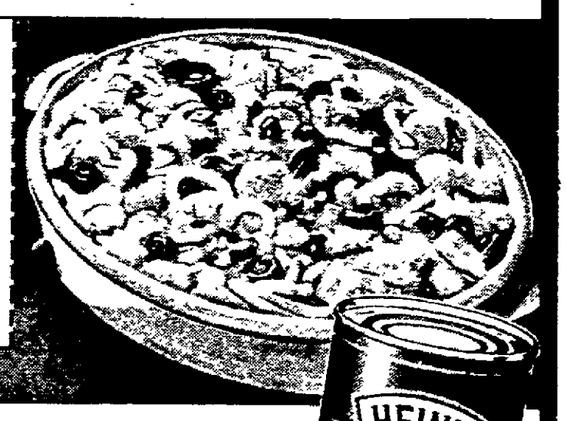
SPAGHETTI AND SAUTÉED SALMON—Drain a 16-oz. tin red salmon. Remove skin, keeping salmon in as large pieces as possible. Sauté quickly in butter. Arrange half of a large (24-oz.) tin Heinz Cooked Spaghetti in casserole. Top with salmon and add remaining spaghetti. Sprinkle with fine bread crumbs or grated Parmesan cheese. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 20 minutes. (Serves 5).

WHY worry about meatless meals when your grocer has Heinz Cooked Spaghetti? Ready to serve, this nourishing dish is grand by itself—or with leftovers. You'll relish its rich tomato sauce—the toothsome goodness of Heinz-made spaghetti strands. It's wise to keep a few tins handy.

HEINZ COOKED SPAGHETTI

RECIPE

MACARONI AND CAULIFLOWER CASSEROLE—Wash and separate into flowerets 1 small head cauliflower. Cook 8 minutes in rapidly boiling salted water. Drain. Brown 1 small tin mushrooms in 1 tbs. butter. Reserve several mushrooms for garnishing. Combine remaining mushrooms with cauliflower. Add, mixing lightly with fork, 1 medium (17-oz.) tin Heinz Cooked Macaroni. Pour into casserole and arrange rest of mushrooms on top. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 minutes. (Serves 4).



A GENEROUS drenching of tangy, cheese-flavored cream sauce makes Heinz Cooked Macaroni extra rich and mouth-watering! So energy-giving it's almost a meal in itself, this thrifty, ready-to-serve dish solves many a meatless-meal problem. It's wise these days to keep a good supply handy!

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

But at the door I paused, my hand upon the knob.

"If I undertake this," I said slowly, "I must have the promise of all of you on one thing."

"Of course," Sam Brixton said promptly, and Helena echoed the promise weakly. Dicky nodded impatiently.

"I know it's important," he said, "but—make it snappy, old dear."

"It's only one thing," I said. "No matter what you hear, I do not want anyone to come upstairs unless I call you. That is for the servants, too. Please have them all down here by the time I get to Ronald."

"Okay," Sam Brixton said and opening the door, I hurried swiftly up the broad colonial stairway to the room which I knew was Helena's, where she had put Carolyn.

But I could have found the room which held the girl even if I had not known its location beforehand. A hammering upon the panels, a raucous shouting for an answer from Carolyn, told me that Ronald was standing in front of his mother's door even before I rounded the corner and saw him there.

"Carol!" he shouted again, not seeing me. "I know you're in there. Mother told me you were. And you're going to let me in and tell me what you know about this mess. You know something, and I'm going to find out what it is. Do you hear me!"

Silence was his only answer, and I could picture Carolyn cowering in her mother's bed, refusing to speak either from terror or stubbornness, or a combination of both.

"I'll give you one more chance," he said "If you don't let me in, I'm going to break down the door!"

I moved quickly and noiselessly toward him, for I realized that he was in the dangerous mood to do exactly what he had threatened. But I was not quick enough to prevent him from throwing his young body against the door frame with a force that rattled it, and brought a faint scream from his sister.

But he was so drained of strength, so emaciated, that the door did not break, as I knew it would have done if he had possessed his usual vigor, and before he could make another attempt he had to catch hold of the knob to steady himself, and, I guessed, keep himself from falling.

But his spirit and determination were not shaken, and he called angrily to Carolyn.

"So you are there!" he shouted. "Open that door this second, if you know what's good for you. I shall not fail the next time!"

I was close behind him now, and I spoke his name softly as I laid my hand upon his arm.

"Ronald!" I pleaded. "Won't you listen to me?"

In his astonishment as he turned and saw me, he dropped his hand from the door-knob and swaying toward me, almost slumped upon my shoulder.

"Aunt Madge!" he stammered. "What? Where? I didn't know you were here. Was it you who brought Carol home?"

He was so evidently in a mental fog that I knew my work was cut out for me. But marshaling all my determination, I put my arm about his shoulders and spoke quickly and with emphasis, although with a voice so muted that the girl behind the locked door could not possibly have heard me.

"I know a great deal more about this thing than Carolyn does," I told him, "and I have come up here especially to see you about it. Besides, Carol is in no shape to talk to anybody. She has a terrible headache and must have rest and quiet. Surely you will not disturb her when I tell you that I have found out all she will tell anybody for the present. And I know things about Marion that she does not dream."

He started as if I had toweled him.

"What things?" he demanded fiercely. "You can't know the thing that Marion wrote to me."

Debunks Lonely Hearts Clubs

Hardly a day passes that I do not get a letter asking me to recommend some matrimonial club where "wealthy, congenial, handsome, cultured, refined" windfalls are to be had for the picking.

When I reply and say there are few legitimate clubs of this type I'm probably regarded as an old meanie devoid of sympathy. But for a good many years now I've kept clippings concerning the doings of some of these Sad Heart clubs and their victims. Robbery, scandals and complete disillusionment have been some of the by-products of these advertising fakirs.

The latest concerns a man of 50, who modestly describes himself as "handsome, congenial and home-loving" in his various answers to one of these Sad Heart clubs. He has just been sentenced by a Chicago judge to 18 months in jail. In sentencing him, His Honor said sternly: "You are mean and low." The Sad Heart correspondent did not deny the allegation. He pleaded guilty. He had allegedly received $1,800 from one lady of 50 and $200 more from another woman met through the club. To both of these — and goodness only knows how many more—he had promised marriage before he got their cash—and vanished.

To have nice young people meet in the right way, in proper surroundings, introduced by someone who knows something about them is an extremely important function of democracy. I have urged continually in this column that churches, organizations like the Y. W. and Y. M., political and civic clubs should see to it that Boy meets Girl in the right surroundings.

Some churches realize their obligation to the young people and get up dramatic societies, debating clubs, dances, and all manner of pleasant get-togethers. Others hand out sermons, and let it go at that, to the gradual withdrawal of young people from such churches.

Churches these days are up against the rivalry of motor cars, dance-halls, roadhouses, movies and a generally relaxed attitude toward religion. That the present state of the world is due to a disregard of religion and the waning power of churches to hold their young parishioners is no idle rumor.

Young people are crowding into our cities. Draftees on leave are looking for a little fun. Here's a chance for all those people who are groaning over the present state of the world to stop lamenting, get out and do something really constructive.

Don't let unhappy girls, victims of loneliness, away from home for the first time, fall into the clutches of vampires who advertise these Sad Heart clubs with tricky names to cover a shameless type of greedy trafficking in loneliness.

And please, if you read a letter in this column from someone whom you'd like to know, do not write to me for his or her address. This column never acts as a go-between, exchanges addresses or undertakes any mission that smacks of a Sad Heart club.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHERE ARE YOUR CARDS?

Before doubling the opponents' contract because of your nice collection of honor cards, it is well to consider first their location in relation to the hostile ones placed by the bidding. If they seem to be under the opponents' honors, where they will get smothered by finesses, be wary. If the opponents' honors seem to be under yours, where you get last whack at them and can knock them off, then go to it.

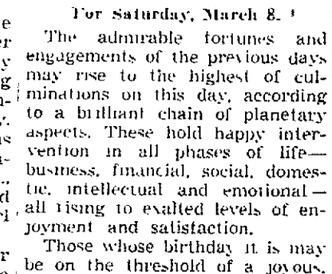
Without East's double there was a good chance that South might have been set. But with it, he made an overtrick. The spade J won the first trick, South ruffed the second spade, took the heart A and then finessed the diamond 8. Had East not doubled, the natural play would have been the Q finesse, which would have cost South a trick. That finesse was taken next, and the A dropped the K. With all of that strength shown by East South decided West might have the club Q, as totally blank hands are rare. So he put out the club 10, which West covered. The K won that, the J dropped the 9, the 8 was good, and so South took all tricks except the first one.

East should have reasoned from the bidding that South probably had only about three cards in the two majors, and that therefore he might take only one trick in those suits. Also that his diamond honors were so placed that his double would tell South how to bump them off. He is now a sadder but wiser young man.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable).

If you had doubled South's 3-Spades and your partner led the diamond 3, how would you play your cards in the East to defeat the contract?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, March 8.

The admirable fortunes and engagements of the previous days may rise to the highest of culminations on this day, according to a brilliant chain of planetary aspects. These hold happy intervention in all phases of life—business, financial, social, domestic, intellectual and emotional—all rising to exalted levels of enjoyment and satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a joyous, prosperous and happy year, with all ambitions and aspirations reaching high goals of achievement and psychological satisfactions. It seems the climax to many lofty ideals, emotional yearnings and more solid but worthy objectives.

A child born on this day should be bounteously endowed with all the gifts and symbols of a highly successful, gratifying and happy life as well as a humane and useful one.

Sigma Kaps Have Annual Election

Officers of Sigma Kappa Gamma were elected at the home of Miss Doris Kiraly, South Foster street, yesterday. Miss Dorothy Kelly was returned to the presidency. She will be assisted by Miss Kiraly, vice president; Miss Jeanne Scott, secretary; Miss Helen Lanzen, treasurer; Miss Dorothy Leech, corresponding secretary, and Miss Kathryn Landafir, sergeant-at-arms.

An installation dinner will be held at the Southern hotel March 20. Arrangements are in charge of the Misses Eileen Minard, Dorothy Blackstone, Janet Wilson and Leech. The club rummage sale was reported, and plans were made for a bake sale April 12. Miss Ruby Rowe, South Diamond street, assisted by Miss Marge Walker, will be hostess for the next regular session.

Welcome Six Pledges To Delta Sigma Zeta

Plans for the spring club season were discussed yesterday when members of Delta Sigma Zeta met with Miss Anita Smith, Marion avenue, and six new pledges were welcomed. They are Marianne Jackson, Marilynn Gernhardt, Eleanor Wilging, Evelyn Art, Marjorie Urich and Helen Short.

Gretchen Edwards and Anne McCormick were inducted into the club. The group agreed to make contributions to the Y. W. C. A. and the British War Relief fund. Tentative arrangements for a formal spring dance were made. Secret pals were drawn, and the pledges provided the program.

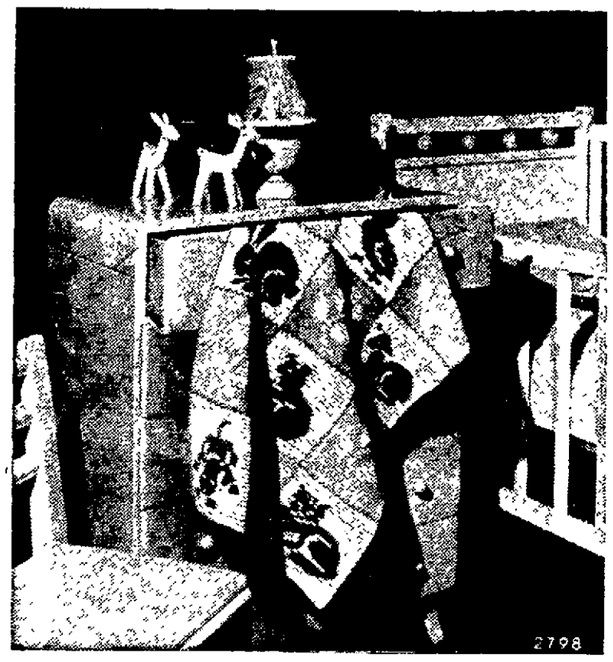
High Style Fashions, Fancy Work



By MARIAN MARTIN

There's a "come-hither" invitation to the sun in this pert young Marian Martin style. Pattern 9668 will lead a double life, for the dress alone makes a nice sportster, while with the jacket added, it becomes a tailored street style. The dress is sleeveless, with a sunback and a square-cut neckline.

Pattern 9668 may be ordered only in misses' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 7⅞ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send Fifteen Cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your Size, Name, Address, and Style Number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th street, New York, N. Y.

Contests were conducted, and prizes won by Mrs. Harry Calhoun, Mrs. Donald Hout and Mrs. Carlton Smith. Mrs. Raymond Snyder, who is moving to another part of the city, was presented with a farewell gift. The next meeting will be April 3 with Mrs. Calhoun, Oak street road.

Crochet the animal and flower blocks in white and a color or in two pastel colors. Then join them into this carriage or crib cover, with pillow, for baby. Pattern 2798 contains charts and directions for making set; illustrations of it and stitches; materials required.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

But at the door I paused, my hand upon the knob.

"If I undertake this," I said slowly, "I must have the promise of all of you on one thing."

"Of course," Sam Brixton said promptly, and Helena echoed the promise weakly. Dicky nodded impatiently.

"I know it's important," he said, "but—make it snappy, old dear."

"It's only one thing," I said. "No matter what you hear, I do not want anyone to come upstairs unless I call you. That is for the servants, too. Please have them all down here by the time I get to Ronald."

"Okay," Sam Brixton said, and opening the door, I hurried swiftly up the broad colonial stairway to the room which I knew was Helena's, where she had put Carolyn.

But I could have found the room which held the girl even if I had not known its location beforehand. A hammering upon the panels, a raucous shouting for an answer from Carolyn, told me that Ronald was standing in front of his mother's door even before I rounded the corner and saw him there.

"Carol!" he shouted again, not seeing me, "I know you're in there. Mother told me you were. And you're going to let me in and tell me what you know about this mess. You know something, and I'm going to find out what it is. Do you hear me!"

Silence was his only answer, and I could picture Carolyn cowering in her mother's bed, refusing to speak either from terror or stubbornness, or a combination of both.

"I'll give you one more chance," he said. "If you don't let me in, I'm going to break down the door!"

I moved quickly and noiselessly toward him, for I realized that he was in the dangerous mood to do exactly what he had threatened. But I was not quick enough to prevent him from throwing his young body against the door frame with a force that rattled it, and brought a faint scream from his sister.

But he was so drained of strength, so emaciated, that the door did not break, as I knew it would have done if he had possessed his usual vigor, and before he could make another attempt he had to catch hold of the knob to steady himself, and I guessed, keep himself from falling.

But his spirit and determination were not shaken, and he called angrily to Carolyn.

"So you are there!" he shouted. "Open that door this second, if you know what's good for you. I shall not fail the next time!"

I was close behind him now, and I spoke his name softly as I laid my hand upon his arm.

"Ronald!" I pleaded. "Won't you listen to me?"

In his astonishment as he turned and saw me, he dropped his hand from the door-knob and swaying toward me, almost slumped upon my shoulder.

"Aunt Madge!" he stammered. "What? Where? I didn't know you were here. Was it you who brought Carol home?"

He was so evidently in a mental fog that I knew my work was cut out for me. But marshaling all my determination, I put my arm about his shoulders, and spoke quickly and with emphasis, although with a voice so muted that the girl behind the locked door could not possibly have heard me.

"I know a great deal more about this thing than Carolyn does," I told him, "and I have come up here especially to see you about it. Besides, Carol is in no shape to talk to anybody. She has a terrible headache and must have rest and quiet. Surely you will not disturb her when I tell you that I have found out all she will tell anybody for the present. And I know things about Marion that she does not dream."

He started as if I had roweled him.

"What things?" he demanded fiercely. "You can't know the thing that Marion wrote to me."

Debunks Lonely Hearts Clubs

Hardly a day passes that I do not get a letter asking me to recommend some matrimonial club where "wealthy, congenial, handsome, cultured, refined" windfalls are to be had for the picking.

When I reply and say there are few legitimate clubs of this type I'm probably regarded as an old meanie devoid of sympathy. But for a good many years now I've kept clippings concerning the doings of some of these Sad Heart clubs and their victims. Robbery, scandals and complete disillusionment have been some of the by-products of these advertising fakirs.

The latest concerns a man of 50, who modestly describes himself as "handsome, congenial and home-loving" in his various answers to one of these Sad Heart clubs. He has just been sentenced by a Chicago judge to 18 months in jail. In sentencing him, His Honor said sternly: "You are mean and low." The Sad Heart correspondent did not deny the allegation. He pleaded guilty. He had allegedly received $1,800 from one lady of 50 and $200 more from another woman met through the club. To both of these — and goodness only knows how many more—he had promised marriage before he got their cash—and vanished.

To have nice young people meet in the right way, in proper surroundings, introduced by someone who knows something about them is an extremely important function of democracy. I have urged continually in this column that churches, organizations like the Y. W. and Y. M., political and civic clubs should see to it that Boy meets Girl in the right surroundings.

Some churches realize their obligation to the young people and get up dramatic societies, debating clubs, dances, and all manner of pleasant get-togethers. Others hand out sermons, and let it go at that, to the gradual withdrawal of young people from such churches.

Churches these days are up against the rivalry of motor cars, dance-halls, roadhouses, movies and a generally relaxed attitude toward religion. That the present state of the world is due to a disregard of religion and the waning power of churches to hold their young parishioners is no idle rumor.

Young people are crowding into our cities. Draftees on leave are looking for a little fun. Here's a chance for all those people who are groaning over the present state of the world to stop lamenting, get out and do something really constructive.

Don't let unhappy girls, victims of loneliness, away from home for the first time, fall into the clutches of vampires who advertise these Sad Heart clubs with tricky names to cover a shameless type of greedy trafficking in loneliness.

And please, if you read a letter in this column from someone whom you'd like to know, do not write to me for his or her address. This column never acts as a go-between, exchanges addresses or undertakes any mission that smacks of a Sad Heart club.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHERE ARE YOUR CARDS?

Before doubling the opponents' contract because of your nice collection of honor cards, it is well to consider first their location in relation to the hostile ones placed by the bidding. If they seem to be under the opponents' honors, where they will get smothered by finesses, be wary. If the opponents' honors seem to be under yours, where you get last whack at them and can knock them off, then go to it.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

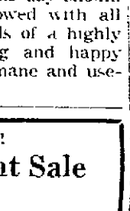
East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	Pass
Dbl

Without East's double, there was a good chance that South might have been set. But with it, he made an overtrick. The spade J won the first trick, South ruffed the second spade, took the heart A and then finessed the diamond 8. Had East not doubled, the natural play would have been the Q finesse, which would have cost South a trick. That finesse was taken next, and the A dropped the K. With all of that strength shown by East, South decided West might have the club Q, as totally blank hands are rare. So he put out the club 10, which West covered. The K won that, the J dropped the 9, the 8 was good, and so South took all tricks except the first one.

East should have reasoned from the bidding that South probably had only about three cards in the two majors, and that therefore he might take only one trick in those suits. Also that his diamond honors were so placed that his double would tell South how to bump them off. He is now a sadder but wiser young man.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable).

If you had doubled South's 3-Spades and your partner led the diamond 3, how would you play your cards in the East to defeat the contract?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, March 8.

The admirable fortunes and engagements of the previous days may rise to the highest of culminations on this day, according to a brilliant chain of planetary aspects. These hold happy intervention in all phases of life—business, financial, social, domestic, intellectual and emotional—all rising to exalted levels of enjoyment and satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is may be on the threshold of a joyous, prosperous and happy year, with all ambitions and aspirations reaching high goals of achievement and psychological satisfactions. It seems the climax to many lofty ideals, emotional yearnings and more solid but worthy objectives.

A child born on this day should be bounteously endowed with all the gifts and symbols of a highly successful, gratifying and happy life as well as a humane and useful one.

Fugitive on a Dude Ranch + +

By Stephen Payne

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XXVIII

"Oh, sure it's all right for you to ask. I ain't high-hat nor uppity. Yes, I kinda like Slim. Fact, I like him heaps. But it's hopeless."

"Of course for him it's hopeless, even though you're not so high-toned as I'd figured and can use slang as natural as a common fellow like me. Uh-huh, you seem to be a regular scout, so I'm going to ask you another question: How about Tony? He's been shinin' up to you. Any hope for him?"

Roberta's reply astounded Cinders. It was a tart, "Mind your own business!" as she went quickly on to Cabin Number One.

Cinders ran his fingers through his reddish-brown hair. "Ain't women queer? And touchy! . . . This 'mess' gets worse and worse. Old Bill's niece robbed, and Bobbie with a detective on her trail . . . Bobbie wasn't a bit opposed to helping me last night pull off a steal . . . 'Twas a steal any way you look at it, Don Sturgis. Did Bobbie—? Doggone! I won't think it. I won't believe it. But Barclay and Tony—cuss his meanness!—both know she's under a cloud of some kind. What'll they suspect now? What'll they do!"

The ruddy-faced young man went about his work in such an absent-minded manner that Stuttering Jake "cussed him out."

* * *

The first breakfast had not been eaten before Kirk Maxwell came charging from his cabin, roaring at the top of his voice, "Somebody on this ranch has taken my manuscript and my photographs! That thief stole my old blue sweater, too!"

A minute later, when news was broadcast that Miss Farnsworth's jewelry was also missing, guests popped out of cabins The bunkhouse came to life with a roar, cowboys buckling on guns they had almost forgotten they possessed. The Lodge disgorged three scantily clad gentlemen, Old Sol, Tony and Roger J. Barclay. Every one who had nothing else to do swarmed around Maxwell and Roberta.

Order was eventually established. As the first breakfast got under way, Mrs. Perriwell said severely. "This reflects on the ranch. If those missing articles are not recovered at once and the thieves caught, it will give the T Slash a bad name . . . Boys," to the hands, "it's up to you. I've tried to phone Sheriff Crowder, but the line's out of order. Always is in an emergency"

Cinders stole a look at Nancy. She was waiting on the table apparently as cool and undisturbed as when she had helped him with one of last night's two robberies

Smoothie Dick Barclay was at this early table. So, for an innovation, were old Sol and Tony. It was Barclay who said quietly, "I'll drive to Jimtown to notify the sheriff, Mrs. Perriwell."

"Fine and dandy," approved the ranchwoman. "Some of you boys search the woods for that tramp who was seen night before last."

"I don't want to be nasty," growled Maxwell, "but I insist on a search of the ranch buildings."

"O. K.," agreed old Sol. "Maxwell, we'll leave no stone unturned, by dogies!"

Flash Taylor, having just returned from Jimtown, strolled in and inquired, "What's all the excitement?"

Four of those present all tried to explain at once. Mrs. Perriwell silenced them and told the story herself.

"You don't say!" exclaimed the dude wrangler. "I saw footprints in the road five-six miles this side of Jimtown, and I noticed our telephone wire cut in three places."

Old Sol ejaculated. "That cinches it! That tramp done the hull business. . . . Barclay, get a-goin' in your fast car. Take Tony and Bronc with you. Bronc's a good shot."

"Some of you boys start hunting nearer home, too," ordered Mrs. Perriwel. "I'll help search the buildings. Come on, Sol. You too, Lem, and you, Mr. Maxwell."

Flash Taylor took no part in this search. He went calmly about saddling horses to take a party of guests out to exclaim over the awesome mountain trails, the wild beauty of lakes, streams, canyons, peaks and far vistas. Nancy and Ike Skittles attended to their particular duties, as did also Cinders and Stuttering Jake.

Barclay's car, carrying Smoothie, Tony and Bronc Peters, roared across the bridge in high and took the west road to Jimtown. Slim, Shorty and Gabby swung to saddles to begin their manhunt. Old Sol and Mrs. Perriwel, with Maxwell, Roberta and old Lanky Lem, began to turn the ranch bottom side up.

And while all this activity was going on, under a bridge spanning a brush-choked gorge, five miles out from Jimtown, sat a grimy, whisker-stubbed individual wearing a dark suit, a brown cap and shoes caked with dried mud. Though he wore a hunted air, his heavy dark features and dark eyes reflected sullen and smouldering resentment.

Beside him lay a recently emptied can of pork and beans. Between his knees, as he sat with legs outstretched to rest his aching feet and legs, was a package from which the man had removed its wrappings.

Heavy, pal of Smoothie Dick, had at first been unable to believe his eyes. But now he was muttering. "The double-crossin' rat! The double-crossin rat!"

At the T Slash search for stolen manuscript and stolen jewels soon proved useless. Whereupon Miss Roberta Rowland, having no particular duties, devoted herself to beautifying mysteries.

However the girl was not long allowed to stay to herself. Slim Cummings, returning unexpectedly, explained to Ike Skittles that it had suddenly occurred to him Miss Farnsworth might enjoy taking part in the hunt. Fifteen minutes later Roberta, provided with a lunch for two, was riding away with the slender cowpuncher.

In the meantime, old Sol took himself to the main room of the lodge and settled down with his pipe to enjoy his New York papers.

* * *

Kirk Maxwell shut himself up in his own cabin to fume and swear and finally start rewriting what had taken him all of yesterday and part of the night. He thrust a new sheet of paper into his typewriter and banged out an arresting lead:

"MARCLA LOUISE FARNSWORTH ROBBED ON T SLASH DUDE RANCH."

At the cookhouse, Ike Skittles fastened a speculative eye upon entrancing, tawny-haired young Nancy.

"I hate like pizen to bring this up, young un. But two big steals was pulled off right yere on the place las' night and I can't help but rec-lect as how Sheriff Chalk Crowder rid out yere lookin' for a feller name of Don Sturgis. Had a description of the hombre in his pocket, he sed. And you, Bobbie—wal, you get what I'm drivin' at."

Nancy "got it," and pretended she didn't. Yet it was poor pretense since Ike had seen her filch a telegram from Crowder's hip pocket and later burn it.

"This Sturgis, now," Ike floundered on "Could it be he's here at the T Slash and you've some reason to protect him? I hates to say it, but if that's the how of it is, after what's come up you jus' gotta—aw, dang it!" He stopped.

Thought Nancy, "I'm always right up against it. One thing after another, sometimes two or three popping up at once—all because of this deception." She looked appealingly at the old cook. "Ike, will you trust me? Trust me blind?"

"Bobbie, I'm for you till the last dog's hung and then some. I jus' knows you couldn't do nothin' low-down ner mean ner—"

"Good! You do trust me! So listen, Ike. That fellow the sheriff wants to find is here, but I can't tell you who it is. I have reasons for doing what I did the other day. Good reasons."

Nancy thought, "It's unnecessary to tell Ike that besides taking the telegram I prompted Roberta to tell the sheriff no description of Don Sturgis had yet come from Wm. F. Waller." She addressed Ike again, "But when the time's right, which will be soon, I'll expose him."

Ike would have given his right ear and his left arm to learn more. Had he not thought the world and all of Bobbie, he would not have accepted such an unsatisfactory explanation.

Smoothie Dick and Tony, having left Bronc Peters along the road to patch the telephone line the thief had cut returned to the ranch for dinner. Other than the footprints that Flash Taylor saw early in the morning, they had found no trace of the thief. They had visited the sheriff's office only to learn that Crowder was out of town on official business, though expected back this evening. So Tony had left a note sealed, because Mrs. Perriwell had stipulated that the disagreeable affair be handled as quietly as possible to avoid undesirable publicity for the ranch.

* * *

Following the noon meal, Nancy went to the Vinyard family's cabin. Here she was attending to the delayed sweeping, dusting and bedmaking when Barclay, entering silently, cornered her.

"Needn't try to slip away, Miss Nancy Eleanor Smith," he said softly. His cold eyes were dangerous, his chiseled face so set and determined that the girl was suddenly deathly afraid of the man.

"I've been doing a little reasoning in regard to that Maxwell robbery. Who would want to stop Maxwell's story from reaching his paper? You know the answer. So, young woman, I'm sure you will now wire the old man for ten grand."

"It would do no good," temporized Nancy. "Before this, Uncle Bill has a wire telling him to come at once. You'll get a chance to talk to him."

Rigid Limits on Campaign Cost Urged

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

What Broadway Needs

IS: A few of the old-time big spenders. It's appalling to see how many of the town's cutest chorines go home by subway and street car these nights. . . . More laughs . . . Personal appearances by Clark Gable, Bette Davis and Shirley Temple.

Kilgallen.

A play for Julie Haydon—besides the one Senor G. J. Nathan is making. . . . Smoked glasses for first nighters who are going blind looking at platina fox. . . . New—and snappier—uniforms for the gendarmes. . . . More short cuts like Shubert Alley.

A Mardi Gras in the spring. . . . A new Tony Galento. . . . A real hot Harlem hot spot reminiscent of the "old days". . . . Parking spaces. . . . Just for a novelty, a play in which murder is taken seriously.

* * *

Better dressing rooms in theaters. . . . Gertie Lawrence has a glamorous layout, Helen Hayes' backstage dwelling is comfy, and Ethel Merman puts on her greasepaint in a chic setting, but most actors and actresses are required to don their makeup in cells that are duplicates of those in the old Jefferson Market jail.

A ban on all society singers except Adelaide Moffett. . . . A cafeteria that isn't also a goldfish bowl. . . . A plush-lined, super-comfortable bowling alley with soft lights and off-scene music, located in midtown for showgirls and Hollywood celebs who want some midnight exercise. . . More Victor Moores.

* * *

More first class shops in the theatrical district—and fewer disfiguring fruit juiceries. . . . Another song like "High on a Windy Hill." . . . A barometer, "play-detector" or similar instrument to gauge whether a drama will be a hit before it opens, thereby saving the angels many a clipped wing.

Some copy-making producers like Belasco and Oscar Hammerstein and Ziegfeld. Fellows to send two hundred telegrams during lunch, or wear pink shirts with their dinner clothes, or sleep in hammocks in a penthouse.

Current show-makers are too conservative, too quietly garbed, too cautious, too normal.

* * *

A bulletin board listing casting news at Walgreen's and the Penn-Astor, where the struggling ingenues and coming matinee idols exchange their afternoon dialogues.

A Russian nitery where no one sings "Ochi Cornya." A Russian nitery where no one sings. . . . Roller skates for the bellboys at the Waldorf. . . . A new Tommy Manville escapade. Couldn't he marry the Siamese twins, just once?

A doorman at Lindy's to announce every new arrival, to save the customers all that head-swiveling every time the revolving door starts moving. The way things are, if you eat at Lindy's often enough you get "Broadway eyeball."

* * *

A good Cinderella story. . . . A new glamor debutante to fill Brenda's slippers. . . . A snappy night club feud, like the old one that used to be waged between the Hollywood and the Paradise. . . . Prettier posters on the side street.

More eating places with quiet charm, like the Baroque. . . . More comedians like Danny Kaye, whose material is as fresh as a stage door Johnny's leer. . . . An action drama like "Ceiling Zero" or "The Last Mile." . . . A wag named Sam Lapidus to tell gags about Lou Holtz.

More violets, instead of orchids, pinned under the chorines' chins. . . . More clubby night spots, like the Cub room and the Barberry room, where you can play backgammon or honeymoon bridge or just chat about the town as if you were a denizen of the Cheshire Cheese.

* * *

A stage thriller directed by Alf Hitchcock. . . . A group of musical intellectuals to make a "cult" of boogie-woogie. We'll know it's happened when a conservative mag prints an article entitled: "Will Bradley's Boogie-Woogie; A Contrapuntal Enigma."

An elaborate series of underground passages connecting 21 with the Colony with the Copacabana with El Morocco, so the confirmed elegantees could make the rounds without ever being exposed to fresh air.

* * *

More comedies like "My Sister Eileen," where you can laugh without thinking. . . . The return of James Durante, that dream prince. . . . A public domain where those shoe-shine kids could put on their tap-dancing routines without being menaced by the bluecoats.

A council to persuade would-be stars from out-of-town that an employed actor is really only a mirage. . . . A machine to record table conversations at the Algonquin.

Bigger theater lobbies. . . . A gag-writer to liven the monologues of the weather report operators at WE 6-1212. . . . A new humor magazine. . . . Norman Bel Geddes lighting effects in the street lamps.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Jack Carson is a high, wide, and somewhat handsome young fellow who gets a sweet salary for not marrying certain pretty young women.

ROBBIN COONS

Carson almost made a career out of not marrying Ginger Rogers. The job lasted through six movies and several years, and now he has a raise in pay and a long-term contract, and will not marry Bette Davis. The new contract (at Warner's) practically guarantees that he will not marry any of the girls that James Cagney wants to marry. In other words, he'll be stepping into shoes vacated by Pat O'Brien, who is no longer on Warner call to love and lose.

He is happy about it. The girl-loser usually lasts longer on the screen than the handsome lads who scoop the luscious heroine into their arms while audiences reach for their hats. And some of the losers, like Gable, Tracy, O'Brien, Cagney and Bill Jowell, stop losing their screen amours and become leading men with star-billing.

* * *

Either way it's sweet to Jack, who not long ago was introducing torch singers, acrobats and trained seals in mid-western variety houses.

His last Ginger Rogers picture was "Lucky Partners," in which he almost got her—and would have, too, if Ronald Colman hadn't been in the film. After an interlude in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" in which he played the loud, boisterous good-time Charley trying to cheer up Bob Montgomery with a couple of blonds, Jack moved over to the new home lot and almost ruined his losing streak. He took Rita Rayworth from Cagney. But, as he says, he really lost out in the end—and Cagney got Olivia de Havilland—the new Olivia, the one who winks at boys.

You don't have to waste sympathy on Jack, though, no matter how many girls he doesn't get. In real life he got a very pretty one. Mrs. Carson is Kay St. Germain, the radio singer.

Chatter Corner

(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Dr. Charles L. Shafer acting as elevator boy for himself on leaving his office in the Walpark building late at night. . . . Six-foot Patrolman Claude Watts of the Mansfield P. D. eating eclairs for breakfast and grinning at the rubber-necks.

* * *

Andrew Zoll stopping to visit in the postoffice. . . . Mrs. Frank H. Maxwell hard at work at the Red Cross institute. . . . Anna Miller humming at her work. . . . W. C. Smith, state highway patrolman, catching up with the news.

* * *

Margaret West, back at the Y. W. temporarily after a long vacation at her home in Tiffin, greeting a friend cordially on the street . . . Mrs. H. L. Creveling pausing to exchange a few comments with two acquaintances . . . Countess Waldeck, Federation lecturer, disturbed over not having an opportunity for a shampoo and wave . . Betty Goddard Culp stopping for a coke at a Park avenue refectory.

* * *

Betty Thompson, new City building telephone operator and stenographer, typing an answer to the letter she wrote to the mayor recently while she was a typist at the Mansfield airport . . . Dr. Lincoln Fisher, director of the county T. B. Sanitorium, calling on the county commissioners to report that "everything's fine" at the county institution. . . Manager M. J. Stanley of the Kresge store going to the roof of the store to rescue Mrs. G. V. Sowers' hat after the wind lifted it up there.

Will Herrold, the insurance man hiking up Walnut street distributing blotters to friends . . . The J. Clark Custers writing from Florida that they will terminate their winter vacation there in about three weeks, returning to Mansfield by motor.

BITTINGER HITS OHIO BUDGET AS SET BY BRICKER

Democratic Chairman Calls It 'Meaningless Collection of Words.'

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — State Democratic Chairman J. Freer Bittinger, today criticized the 1941-42 budget recommendations of Governor Bricker as "a weak, meaningless collection of words deliberately designed to mislead and hoodwink the people."

The state chairman, adding his caustic comment to that of leaders of the Democratic minority in the legislature, said that the governor's budget message Wednesday night "took on a decidedly pessimistic tone for purely political purposes."

Bittinger's comment was delivered in a Jackson Day address last night at a Fairfield county Democratic rally in Lancaster.

He repeated the criticism of Rep. Harold L. Mason, D., Wyandott, minority leader in the house, that Bricker's estimates of $51,500,00 from state sales tax revenues in 1941 and 1942 were $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 too low.

The Democratic chairman questioned the sources of information cited by Bricker.

"He says he secures his information from the United States census, the tax policy league and 'similar fact gathering organizations.' . . . If the governor really wanted to know the true condition of Ohio's finances why didn't he go directly to the records of the auditor of state? . . .," Bittinger asked.

(The state auditor is Joseph T. Ferguson, a Democrat, who has been at frequent odds with the Republican administration of Bricker.)

ILLNESS FATAL

Miss Anna M. Kemp, Former Librarian Here, Dies.

Friends in Mansfield learned today of the death of Miss Anna Mary Kemp, former assistant librarian at the Mansfield Public library. She died after a lingering illness at the Ohio Valley hospital at Wheeling, W .Va.

Miss Kemp was a graduate of Mansfield public schools. She was a member of the Christian church and the Fortnight club in Mansfield, and a graduate of Bethany college, W. Va., where she was employed as librarian. She was a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority at the college.

Miss Kemp had lived in Bethany, W. Va., for a number of years. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kemp.

Funeral services will be held at the Bethany College chapel, today at 7:30 p. m. Burial will be Saturday in Barnesville cemetery.

Mrs. B. O. Conn and Mrs. H. L. Princehorn of Mansfield left today to attend the funeral services.

DEATH CLAIMS RETIRED FARMER

N. W. Lee, Former Huron County Commissioner, Succumbs.

NEW LONDON — N. W. Lee, 74, retired farmer and a former Huron county commissioner, died at his home near Clarksfield yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness.

He was county commissioner for eight years and a director of the Ohio Farm Milk company. He was widely known among cattle raisers in Ohio.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, Harry Lee of Wellington and John Lee at home.

The body will remain at the Fitch funeral home here until 2 p. m. Sunday when funeral services will be held at the Clarksfield Methodist church.

DON'T PUT THAT FIRE OUT BOYS!

Firemen's Faces Red As They Battle Wrong Blaze.

CHICAGO —(INS)— The bright red sides of Chicago's fire-wagons were no redder today than the cheeks of some of the city's firemen.

More than 20 firemen from three companies were battling last night to extinguish six burning box cars in the yards of the North Western railroad when Arthur H. Ankersen, fire marshal for the railroad, stopped them.

"Don't put out the fire, boys," he said. "These box cars are old and we're burning them on purpose."

HEADS JACKSON DAY CAMPAIGN

Crestline Mayor To Direct Drive; $25 Contributors To Get Dinner.

Mayor L. F. Waldbauer of Crestline had been chosen today to head the drive in the Eighth congressional district for funds for the annual Jackson day celebrations March 29.

James Neville of Delaware, will be in charge of the campaign in the 17th district which includes Richland and other northcentral Ohio counties.

Mrs. Mildred R. Jaster, Democratic national committeewoman from Ohio, is state director of the Jackson day campaign.

Mrs. Jaster said the drive for funds will be primarily to pay off the party's deficit from the campaign last fall and to provide money for the congressional campaign in 1942.

Contributors of $25 or more will be invited to attend the state Jackson day dinner in Columbus the night of March 20 when Vice President Henry Wallace is scheduled to speak. President Roosevelt will address party leaders at dinners throughout the nation in a radio talk.

She Objects to Being Carted In Telephone Booth

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Mrs. Lena Jones doesn't question the right of the telephone company to remove any of its pay-station booths, but she resents a booth being removed while she is in it.

That was the basis of the suit in which Mrs. Jones today is seeking $10,000 damages from the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Mrs. Jones claims that on March 9, 1939 two service men entered a drug store while she was using the phone. Without bothering to look inside, she charges, they tore the booth from its moorings, turned it roughly on its side and carted it away.

Mrs. Jones said she rattled around inside, her screams unheard. She said she finally managed to open the door and tumble out, but not before she sustained injuries.

TWO MANSFIELD BOYS WINNERS

Messengers Awarded Prizes In Safety Contest.

Two Mansfield youths were among the winners in a nation-wide safety contest sponsored by the Western Union Telegraph company for its messengers.

The pair shared in a distribution of $2,500 among messengers in the fourth district, which includes Ohio, Indiana and Michigan.

George Kopcok, 756 Bowman street, was awarded $5 and Daniel Gagich, 19, Crystal Spring street, was awarded $3, R. G. Clark, manager of the company's office here, announced.

Clark said the contest was sponsored on a quarterly basis by the company as an inducement for its messengers to be careful and to promote safety among the employes.

ANTI-FIREWORKS BILL CALLED VICTORY FOR RETIRED BARBER

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Enactment of the anti-fireworks bill which will become effective Aug. 1, is a personal victory for Senator O. E. Whitacre, a retired barber of Minerva, Stark county.

Four years ago he and Mrs. Whitacre were standing at the window of their home, watching youngsters load a toy cannon in the street.

Whitacre suggested they leave the window, since a son had suffered a crippled finger in a firecracker explosion. So they left the window.

A short time later the toy cannon exploded. A one-pound iron fragment was hurled through the window and embedded in a wall.

"So," he said in relating the story to the senate, "I am lucky to be here sponsoring this bill."

It was the third such measure that the Democratic senator had sponsored.

The legislation virtually prohibits the use of fireworks except at public celebrations. They cannot be sold at retail and cannot be possessed without a permit issued by the sheriff or fire chief. While most cities prohibit the sale or use of fireworks, they at present can be sold outside the city limits. Vendors who now set up business on the outskirts of a municipality will be banned by the new law.

Apparently, not even sparklers or "fire fountains" will be permitted for general public use.

On the other hand, the sale and use of cap pistols and caps "shall be permited at all times," the bill says. The pistols must be so constructed that the hand cannot come in contact with the cap when it is fired.

START CLASSES

30 Enrolled In New Course In Defense Engineering.

Third class in engineering defense training will be started at Senior high school Monday evening when 30 young men employed in Mansfield industry embark on an extended course of advanced instruction in metallurgy.

The classes will be held every Monday and Wednesday evening in inspection of steel and cast iron products under the supervision of R. W. Parens, metallurgist at the Ohio Brass company.

Conducted under the auspices of the engineering department of Ohio State University through cooperation of the national defense board, the courses are similar to the ones started two weeks ago in engineering drawing and tool engineering.

Instruction is part of the government's national defense program to provide technical workers, already employed with advanced training.

Laff-a-Day

"No, I don't need an overcoat. All I've got to do is think of the bill for my wife's furs and I start to perspire."

Mansfielders corresponding with residents in Great Britain and Ireland may have trouble getting an answer to their last letters. Word was received by post office officials today of the sinking of the steamer Siamese Prince off the coast of Scotland, Feb. 18, with 1,629 sacks of mail aboard. Mail lost included 259 sacks of parcel post and 22 sacks of registered mail, totaling 943 articles, postoffice officials said.

Impressed by the now-famous editorial, "The American Century," which appeared recently in Life magazine, Glenn L. Bierly, member of the selective service Board 1 in Mansfield, wrote to the magazine publishers for reprints of the editorial to give to selectees leaving Mansfield. Bierly's letter appears in this week's Life with an editor's note telling him that reprints are available free of charge. In his letter Bierly described the editorial as 'a clarion call to unity and purposeful action." It deals with the national defense problem.

Three months ago employes at the Hughes Supply company on West Sixth street observed an automobile parked on the company's property. They didn't pay much attention to the machine believing that it belonged to some people who lived across the street. But Saturday when the people moved from the house and the car still remained, they called police. Officers checked the license number with state officials and it was discovered that the car had been stolen in Baltimore, Md., early in December. The owner is expected to come to Mansfield for the car.

Spring may still be two weeks away, but Mansfield's first robin has been reported. In fact, there were two "firsts" and some bluebirds and meadowlarks which may or may not indicate that spring will be early this year. The robins—and they must have been chilly ones—were seen by Mrs. Florence Moiser, Mansfield R. D. 2, and Mrs. Maurice John Byrnes, South Boulevards. M. Lee Hundley, rear of 391 Glessner avenue, said he found three bluebirds and a flock of 20 prairie horned larks near the Charles Mill dam and two meadow larks west of the city. He also sighted 61 ducks headed north over the Charles Mill lake area.

GRANTS REQUEST

U. S. Allows Shelby Company Right to Reduce Taxes.

The Ohio Seamless Tube company, Shelby, is among 31 Ohio industrial firms which have been granted the right to charge defense plant expansion costs against gross income to reduce their income taxes during the next five years, the national defense commission announced today.

The Shelby firm, which is installing additional equipment to handle defense orders, filed its application for a "certificate of necessity" several weeks ago. The Ohio Seamless Tube company will be permitted to charge expansion costs up to $194,000 against its gross income.

The Timken Roller Bearing company, Canton, was granted the largest defense certificate of necessity in the state. It covers expenditures totaling $3,639,000 for electric furnace steels.

George McDonald, 65, Succumbs; Rites Set For Saturday.

George McDonald, 65, died at the Richland county infirmary last night after a long illness.

He is survived by two sons, Clem McDonald of near Bellville and Orley McDonald of Hicksville, O.

The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home where funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday with Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger in charge. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

INVESTIGATORS SAY 22 MILLION SPENT IN 1940

Republicans Are Credited With $15,000,000 Outlay In Presidential Race.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate campaign investigating committee, reporting that the major parties had spent almost $22,000,000, at a minimum, during the 1940 presidential contest, recommended today that congress fix rigid limits on political funds and tighten up other federal election laws.

Republican groups were credited with expenditures of almost $15,000,000, and Democrats, with more than $6,000,000.

The special committee submitted a 10-point political reform program which included separate, sharply-worded minority statements from Senator Tobey (R. N. H.).

Tobey asked a congressional investigation of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., powerful Democratic leader; charged that Oliver A. Quayle, Democratic national committee leader, had "lied brazenly and unhesitatingly" to the committee; questioned $300,00 loaned to Democrats by R. J. Reynolds; and criticized primary expenditures by Senator Radcliff (D. Md).

Reflecting a prolonged dispute among the five senators appointed to police last year's election, the special committee offered no specific "remedial legislation."

The majority found existing federal laws seeking to limit expenses of a presidential campaign to $3,000,000 and individual contribution to $5,000 in one year had been "largely ineffective."

It found that congressional attempts to limit contributions and expenditures of national committees to $3,000,000 a year under the Hatch act, had resulted in "mushroom" growth of "independent committees," each claiming the right to raise and spend $3,000,000.

The committee also criticized the Hatch act's $5,000 limit on individual contributions because it exempted contributions to state or local groups. In this connection the committee majority cited "family contributions" of $186,780 by the du Ponts, $108,525 by the Pew family, and $59,000 by the Rockefellers, all to Republican or affiliated groups.

The first three committee "objectives" were aimed at these conditions with suggestions to fix definite limits both on the total amount that may be spent for national candidates and on individual contributions of all kinds.

Other suggested reforms included:

A curb on "false, libellous, and scurrilous campaign literature;"

A prohibition against "coercoin" of voters by private employers or corporations.

Borglum Will Be Buried at Foot Of Huge Carving

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Plans were made today to bury John Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor who carved monuments from mountains, in a crypt at the foot of his most ambitious project, the Mount Rushmore Memorial in South Dakota.

The memorial commission at Washington unanimously approved a motion to provide the crypt at the base of the granite cliff where for 13 years he worked on the 60-foot heads of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Theodore Roosevelt. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes was expected to approve the plan.

His son, Lincoln, 28, who has been Borglum's assistant at Mount Rushmore, will complete the work on the memorial.

Borglum died at a Chicago hospital yesterday of complications resulting from a heart ailment.
